Governor Flies To Aid

Rescuers Press Hunt For Missing Rockefeller Son

MICHAEL ROCKEFELLER
Missing In New Guinea.

THE HAGUE (AP) — A Dutch companion of missing Michael Rockefeller was rescued today off the south coast of New Guinea and a report from the wild area said there was reason to hope Rockefeller also was safe.

The Interior Ministry said it had received a message from the administration at Hollandia, capital of West New Guinea saying had good reason to hope that Rockefeller reached the coast.

The Dutch companion of the youngest son of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller told rescuers he last saw young Rockfeller floating off on two all-purpose military cans that could be used to keep him afloat. The rescued man said the two were forced to abandon their prahu, a native craft made of two canoes joined together.

The word came as the older Rockefeller, pale and shaken, began a 10,000-mile plane dash from New York to New Guinea. A spokesman for the governor said during a stopover in San Francisco that the news of the rescue of the Dutch companion was encouraging.

A member of a U.S. exploration team, the 23-year-old Michael was on a hunt for primitive art and sculpture in one of the wildest areas on earth, New Guinea's southern coast of swamp and jungle.

The Dutch companion was picked up this morning by a Dutch navy craft off the coast, the government announced. It said the search for young Rockefeller is continuing.

The rescued man, a Dutch official named R. S. Wassing, 34, said that he had last seen Rockefeller floating on two cans off the southern mouth of the Eilanden River—River of the Island.

He did not know if Rockefeller had reached the uninhabited shore, the Interior Ministry announcement said.

The announcement, based on information from the Dutch administration at Hollandia and the air arm of the Dutch navy, said that Sunday at 4 p.m. local time a capsized prahu—a small native vessel—was spotted off the mouth of the Eilanden River.

Naval craft could not reach the prahu before dusk fell and during the night contact was lost, the announcement said. But this

2 Men Face Police Quiz For Slaying

Hancock Resident, Illinois Man Held For Interrogation

Two men reportedly are being held in jail today for questioning in connection with the slaying of 18-year-old Mrs. Nancy Lee Chandler Boyd as sheriff's office and city police continue to investigate various phases of the case.

Questioning of the men — one from the Newell area and the other from Illinois — is expected to be resumed today after officers called off the interrogation at 1 a. m. this morning.

Officers also are to quiz some Beaver County men today as they continue to probe the shotgun murder of the teen-age mother whose body was discovered last Wednesday in an isolated area on Beaver Creek near the Ohio-Pennsylvania line.

The Newell area man reportedly was picked up Saturday in Hancock County while the Illinois man was taken into custody last night by city police.

Neither Sheriff Russell Van Fossan or Police Chief Americo Radeschi had any comment today about the case. Van Fossan said the officers are rechecking previous information they received.

Chief Radeschi issued a new appeal for anyone with information about the young mother to come forward.

Officers still have been unable to locate Mrs. Boyd's glasses, purse or wallet, Chief Radeschi said.

Where she stayed from the time she left the home of an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hall, in California Hollow on Nov. 4 until she was last seen in East Liverpool remains a mystery, the chief said.

The young mother was reported missing to the sheriff's office on Nov. 4, but the investigation has disclosed several people who had seen or talked to her in various places in the East Liverpool area until Nov. 10, the chief said.

Talks Open On Policies In Germany

President Hopeful Chancellor Will Be 'Flexible' In Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer open a series of policy conferences today in an effort to agree on a basis for Western negotiation with the Soviet Union to settle the Berlin dispute.

Kennedy was reported hopeful that Adenauer would accept a flexible approach, allowing for some concessions by the West, if the Soviet Union is willing to respect "vital interests" of the Western powers in West Berlin.

The West German chancellor arrived here Sunday calling for cooperation among the Allies and predicting victory for "the peace-loving nations" in the cold war.

He told Secretary of State Dean Rusk who met his plane at Andrews Air Force Base that he is "convinced the peace-loving nations will win."

This is the 85-year-old German leader's second visit since Kennedy took office in January. He was here in April for a get-acquainted meeting. He told Rusk, "My country is firmly on your side."

In advance of the late afternoon White House session, U.S. officials said they were not sure about Adenauer's mood in coming here or just how much flexibility he would display on key issues, but they said he has appeared to be seriously interested in prospects for East-West negotiations on Berlin.

U.S. officials said there were no disagreements between Adenauer and Kennedy on fundamental issues. Both men are agreed that the interests of the West require the continued presence of U.S.

Car Hits Pole, Injuring 4 In Auto Of Youth

Motorist Swerves To Avoid Striking Animal On Street

Four were hurt, none seriously, when a Beaver County youth's car crashed into a utility pole on St. Clair Ave. Sunday at 2:10 a. m., police reported. It was one of four weekend traffic mishaps.

A 1956 two-door sedan driven by Willis Jobe, 19, of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1 was a total loss after it rammed the pole as he drove south on St. Clair, officers said.

Jobe told police he swerved to avoid "a small animal" which ran into the street. The brakes on the car locked, causing it to hit the pole, he said.

Jobe, who is on leave from the Navy at Norfolk, Va., suffered a laceration of the upper lip. He and three passengers were treated at City Hospital. They were Janice Smith, 19, of Sunnyside Ave., bruised left eyelid; Darlene Hoyt, 20, of the Duke-Vodrey Rd., Calcutta, laceration of the right eyebrow, and Ernest J. Merritt, 19, of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, contusions of the left shoulder.

A Michigan man was cited after a two-way crash Sunday at 2:10 p. m. on Park Way, 700 feet south of Elysian Way, officers said.

Curtis E. Johnson, 20, of Mt. Clemens, Mich., was charged with driving left of center following a collision that damaged his 1955 coupe and a 1957 sedan operated by Jean Gerace, 43, of 622 Broadview Circle, police said.

The Michigan car was southbound about 30 to 35 miles an

Protest Seen On Voting In Philippines

President Refuses To Concede, States Doubts On Returns

MANILA (AP)—A liberal party leader said today that President Carlos P. Garcia plans to protest President-elect Diosdado Macapagal's election in an effort to delay the Liberal candidate's inauguration.

Sen. Ferdinand E. Marcos, the Liberal party president, said Garcia's Nacionalista party, which retained control of both houses of Congress in the election last week, may refuse to proclaim Macapagal president after canvassing the vote next month.

Such a proclamation is required by law, Marcos said, and legally any protest of the returns would have to be made to the Supreme Court after the proclamation by Congress. Normally the new president would be sworn in at the end of December.

No immediate comment was available from Garcia, who conferred with other Nacionalista leaders at the Malacanang presidential palace. Garcia refused Sunday to concede the election and said, "There are grounds for doubting the accuracy of the compilation of election returns."

Judge Taft Announces For Chief Justice Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Supreme Court Judge Kingsley A. Taft announced today he will be a candidate next year for elevation to the post of chief justice.

Taft, 58, has been a member of the court since 1948. He is a Republican.

The present chief justice is Carl V. Weygandt. He has held that post since 1933. He is expected to seek re-election. He is a Democrat.

U.S. Seeks Congo Curbs On Secession

U.N. Asks To Halt Moves On Gizenga, Oriental Province

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States, fearful that Antoine Gizenga might withdraw Oriental Province from the Congo, sought today to have the U.N. Security Council call for an end to all secessionist activities in the turbulent country.

U.S. delegates scheduled a meeting with delegates of Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic to urge them to write such a general anti-secession provision into a resolution they introduced last Wednesday. The resolution now calls for an end to secessionist activities only in Katanga Province.

The 11-nation council was to meet this afternoon. The three-nation resolution lacked the votes to pass in its original form and ran the risk of a Soviet veto if changed to suit the United States.

U.S. Ships Stand By

Dominicans Stop Coup By Trujillos

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Bowing to a U.S. show of force and opposition from young Dominican air force generals, the Trujillo clan today appeared to have abandoned an attempt to set up a new dictatorship in this Caribbean republic.

President Joaquin Balaguer, pledged to set the nation on the road to democracy, extended his control as 29 top Trujillo officials slipped out of the country at midnight aboard a chartered airliner and flew to Florida.

Two brothers of slain dictator Rafael L. Trujillo led the exodus of the crumbling family dynasty that ruled the country for 31 years virtually as a private plantation.

The fleeing Trujillos were met by U.S. government officials headed by a Secret Service agent as their four-engine plane landed at Broward County Airport, about an hour's drive from Miami.

The two—Gen. Hector Trujillo, a former president, and Gen. Jose Arizmendi Trujillo, who had his own army—went originally into exile three weeks ago but returned quietly last week in what the United States charged appeared to be a desperate attempt to seize power.

Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo Jr., son of the former dictator who reportedly was at odds with his uncles, quit as commander-in-chief of the armed forces last week when they came back and sailed away in his yacht.

Balaguer, himself a former front man for the old dictator, still faced the prospect of difficulties with strong opposition party elements in carrying out his pledge to bring democracy to the country.

Some opposition leaders were openly suspicious that the threat from the Trujillo faction was not really over. "The pro-Trujillos are too smug about the entire situation," one said.

The president took over supreme command of the military and proclaimed an emergency, just short of martial law.

Balaguer won pledges of support from the new leaders of the armed forces after warning that squabbling could lead to "foreign military intervention"—a clear allusion to U.S. warships and Ma-

Fight Looms In Democrat Post Vacancy

Rep. Bolling Seeks Floor Leadership Set For Rep. Albert

WASHINGTON (AP) — As an aftermath of Speaker Sam Rayburn's death, House Democrats may be caught up in a contest over who will become floor leader.

The possibility of a fight was raised Sunday by the disclosure that Rep. Richard Bolling of Missouri will seek the post left open when Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts steps up, as is expected, to the speakership.

While Bolling himself was not available for comment, it was learned on the best authority he will challenge Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma for the floor leadership.

Bolling had been the only name mentioned as a likely opponent of McCormack for the speakership. His decision to run for the No. 2 post in the House high command made it almost certain McCormack would succeed Rayburn.

McCormack became acting speaker when cancer forced Rayburn to leave the capitol last August.

Albert was designated acting floor leader by McCormack and his formal election had been taken for granted until Bolling decided to make it a contest. Albert made his own entrance official Sunday night, when he formally announced at his McAlester,

A pre-Thanksgiving "gift" of $565,867 will be distributed to 7,789 Christmas Club members this week by four area financial institutions.

Although there were 15 more members than in 1960, the checks show a decrease of $37,963 from the $603,830 paid out last year. In 1959, $585,480 was distributed to 7,861 members.

The average check will be for $72.65, compared to $77.67 in 1960.

The Potters Bank & Trust Co. and the Potters Savings & Loan Co. will place their checks in the mail Tuesday while the First National Bank and Central Federal Savings & Loan Co. of Wellsville will mail theirs Wednesday.

Potters Bank will mail checks totaling $199,315 to 2,503 members with the average of $79.63.

Potters Savings will send 1,293 checks totaling $87,878, an average of $67.96.

First National will distribute $220,000 to 3,200 members. The average is $68.75.

Central Federal will mail 793 checks totaling $58,674, an average of $74.

The Christmas Club Corp. said some 8,800 banks and savings institutions are mailing checks totaling more than $1.5 billion to more than 13 million members. The total, it said, is $1,510,460,000.

The average check will be $112 per member compared to $110 in 1960.

The corporation said a survey shows 30 per cent of the money will be used to pay for Christmas purchases, 42 per cent for savings and investment use, 17 per cent for taxes, 5 per cent for year-end bills and 6 per cent for miscellaneous causes.

Tremors Jolt Homes In Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Earthquakes jolted Los Angeles and Orange Counties today but apparently caused no heavy damage.

The first jolt was felt about 12:54 a.m. in Hollywood, Huntington Park, Long Beach, Norwalk and numerous Orange County communities. It knocked down a ceiling on the second floor of the public safety building in Long Beach and damaged dishes and other breakables in some homes. The disturbance lasted about 15 seconds in Long Beach.

Another shock was felt in the Los Angeles area about 3:32. It lasted only a second or two.

Some Doubts Heard

Russian Church Enters Worldwide Organization

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Russian Orthodox Church was admitted today to the World Council of Churches amid misgivings and considerable acclaim.

The step came as believers of nearly every kind and culture began the most widely inclusive Christian convocation of the modern era.

Outside the meeting place at the Vigyan Bhawan Temple of Learning a picket carried a sign reading "Russian clergy are Communist agents, not servants of God."

But among church envoys here for the council's third general assembly, vigorous applause greeted the action seating the 16-man Russian Church delegation.

Each member denomination — 175 Protestant, Orthodox, Anglican and Old Catholic bodies—was entitled to one vote. Two U.S. churches abstained—the Russian Orthodox Church in America and the Hungarian Reformed Church in America.

The Rt. Rev. Zoltan Beky of Trenton, N.J., bishop of the Hungarian Church, voiced the fear Russian churchmen would use the council "as a platform for political purposes."

Other churchmen from East and West said the entry of the Russian Church broadened the scope of the Christian unity movement and gave ancient Eastern denominations full representation in it.

Twenty-two other church bodies were admitted, including the Bulgarian, Romanian and Polish Orthodox churches and two Chilean Pentecostal churches, the first

Reds Bolster Berlin's Wall

2,000 Workers Put Up Barriers, Traps

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists today strengthened the wall dividing Berlin with tank traps and barriers as if they were digging to repel an invasion.

Big propaganda signs were tacked up in front of the Brandenburg Gate reading: "Anyone who attacks us will be annihilated."

About 2,000 workers, under the watchful eyes of 2,000 armed guards, labored feverisly during the night erecting massive fortifications that look more and more permanent.

There was little military activity on the Western side of the wall.

Ten U.S. tanks remained about 600 yards from the Friedrichstrasse crossing point. Two armored personnel carriers stood in the street itself, where they have been for a month.

Streetcar tracks were torn up to make tank traps and the wall was made thicker and higher in a dozen places along its 25-mile length.

Night Of Terror

Rescued Girl, 11, Recalls Blood On Decks Of Boat

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Terry Jo Dupperault, 11-year-old waif of the sea, saw "a great deal of blood all over" the decks of the ill-fated ketch Bluebelle the night the vessel sank in the Atlantic, carrying her family to its death, the Coast Guard reported today.

The Green Bay, Wis., girl, recovering in a Miami hospital after rescue from a small raft, told Coast Guard investigators of a terror-filled night.

The Coast Guard called a special news conference to disclose information its investigators got from the girl, sole survivor of seven persons to put to sea on the Bluebelle.

Sunday night, the night of the sinking in the Bahamas, she was awakened by sounds of screaming and running on deck, the Coast Guard investigator quoted her as saying.

According to the report, this was her account:

She recognized the voice of her brother Brian as one of those screaming. She went outside of her room, saw her mother and Brian on the floor of the central cabin, and saw "a great deal of blood all over."

She climbed up to the main deck and saw blood on the afterdeck and Capt. Julian Harvey coming toward her with something in his hand. When she asked him what happened, he told her in an angry voice "To get down there!" struck her and forced her back down the stairs.

She went to her bunk and heard water sloshing over the deck and

Parked Auto Coasts, Takes Dive Into River

A Wellsville man parked his car while he went to visit at a home on Riverside Ave., Wellsville, Saturday night about 7:35, and when he returned a few minutes later the vehicle had disappeared—into the Ohio River.

The car owned by Ellis Peterson of Aten Ave. Ext. drifted into the river near 16th St., Wellsville police said.

Peterson told officers he left the motor running. When he came back outside, he saw the car sinking into the water. As the water is very deep at the spot, a diver had to hook the cable from a towing truck to the bumper to haul the car out.

Talks Open On Policies In Germany

President Hopeful Chancellor Will Be 'Flexible' In Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer open a series of policy conferences today in an effort to agree on a basis for Western negotiation with the Soviet Union to settle the Berlin dispute.

Kennedy was reported hopeful that Adenauer would accept a flexible approach, allowing for some concessions by the West, if the Soviet Union is willing to respect "vital interests" of the Western powers in West Berlin.

The West German chancellor arrived here Sunday calling for cooperation among the Allies and predicting victory for "the peace-loving nations" in the cold war.

Four were hurt, none seriously, when a Beaver County youth's car crashed into a utility pole on St. Clair Ave. Sunday at 2:10 a. m., police reported. It was one of four weekend traffic mishaps.

President Refuses To Concede, States Doubts On Returns

MANILA (AP)—A liberal party leader said today that President Carlos P. Garcia plans to protest President-elect Diosdado Macapagal's election in an effort to delay the Liberal candidate's inauguration.

Sen. Ferdinand E. Marcos, the Liberal party president, said Garcia's Nacionalista party, which retained control of both houses of Congress in the election last week, may refuse to proclaim Macapagal president after canvassing the vote next month.

Such a proclamation is required by law, Marcos said, and legally any protest of the returns would have to be made to the Supreme Court after the proclamation by Congress. Normally the new president would be sworn in at the end of December.

A pre-Thanksgiving "gift" of $565,867 will be distributed to 7,789 Christmas Club members this week by four area financial institutions.

Although there were 15 more members than in 1960, the checks show a decrease of $37,963 from the $603,830 paid out last year. In 1959, $585,480 was distributed to 7,861 members.

The average check will be for $72.65, compared to $77.67 in 1960.

The Potters Bank & Trust Co. and the Potters Savings & Loan Co. will place their checks in the mail Tuesday while the First National Bank and Central Federal Savings & Loan Co. of Wellsville will mail theirs Wednesday.

Potters Bank will mail checks totaling $199,315 to 2,503 members with the average of $79.63.

Potters Savings will send 1,293 checks totaling $87,878, an average of $67.96.

First National will distribute $220,000 to 3,200 members. The average is $68.75.

Central Federal will mail 793 checks totaling $58,674, an average of $74.

The Christmas Club Corp. said some 8,800 banks and savings institutions are mailing checks totaling more than $1.5 billion to more than 13 million members. The total, it said, is $1,510,460,000.

The average check will be $112 per member compared to $110 in 1960.

The corporation said a survey shows 30 per cent of the money will be used to pay for Christmas purchases, 42 per cent for savings and investment use, 17 per cent for taxes, 5 per cent for year-end bills and 6 per cent for miscellaneous causes.

Some Doubts Heard

Russian Church Enters Worldwide Organization

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Russian Orthodox Church was admitted today to the World Council of Churches amid misgivings and considerable acclaim.

The step came as believers of nearly every kind and culture began the most widely inclusive Christian convocation of the modern era.

Outside the meeting place at the Vigyan Bhawan Temple of Learning a picket carried a sign reading "Russian clergy are Communist agents, not servants of God."

But among church envoys here for the council's third general assembly, vigorous applause greeted the action seating the 16-man Russian Church delegation.

Each member denomination — 175 Protestant, Orthodox, Anglican and Old Catholic bodies—was entitled to one vote. Two U.S. churches abstained—the Russian Orthodox Church in America and the Hungarian Reformed Church in America.

The Rt. Rev. Zoltan Beky of Trenton, N.J., bishop of the Hungarian Church, voiced the fear Russian churchmen would use the council "as a platform for political purposes."

Other churchmen from East and West said the entry of the Russian Church broadened the scope of the Christian unity movement and gave ancient Eastern denominations full representation in it.

Twenty-two other church bodies were admitted, including the Bulgarian, Romanian and Polish Orthodox churches and two Chilean Pentecostal churches, the first

2,000 Workers Put Up Barriers, Traps

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists today strengthened the wall dividing Berlin with tank traps and barriers as if they were digging to repel an invasion.

Big propaganda signs were tacked up in front of the Brandenburg Gate reading: "Anyone who attacks us will be annihilated."

About 2,000 workers, under the watchful eyes of 2,000 armed guards, labored feverisly during the night erecting massive fortifications that look more and more permanent.

There was little military activity on the Western side of the wall.

Ten U.S. tanks remained about 600 yards from the Friedrichstrasse crossing point. Two armored personnel carriers stood in the street itself, where they have been for a month.

Streetcar tracks were torn up to make tank traps and the wall was made thicker and higher in a dozen places along its 25-mile length.

Night Of Terror

Rescued Girl, 11, Recalls Blood On Decks Of Boat

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Terry Jo Dupperault, 11-year-old waif of the sea, saw "a great deal of blood all over" the decks of the ill-fated ketch Bluebelle the night the vessel sank in the Atlantic, carrying her family to its death, the Coast Guard reported today.

The Green Bay, Wis., girl, recovering in a Miami hospital after rescue from a small raft, told Coast Guard investigators of a terror-filled night.

The Coast Guard called a special news conference to disclose information its investigators got from the girl, sole survivor of seven persons to put to sea on the Bluebelle.

Sunday night, the night of the sinking in the Bahamas, she was awakened by sounds of screaming and running on deck, the Coast Guard investigator quoted her as saying.

According to the report, this was her account:

She recognized the voice of her brother Brian as one of those screaming. She went outside of her room, saw her mother and Brian on the floor of the central cabin, and saw "a great deal of blood all over."

She climbed up to the main deck and saw blood on the after-deck and Capt. Julian Harvey coming toward her with something in his hand. When she asked him what happened, he told her in an angry voice "To get down there!" struck her and forced her back down the stairs.

She went to her bunk and heard water sloshing over the deck and

Parked Auto Coasts, Takes Dive Into River

A Wellsville man parked his car while he went to visit at a home on Riverside Ave., Wellsville, Saturday night about 7:35, and when he returned a few minutes later the vehicle had disappeared—into the Ohio River.

The car owned by Ellis Peterson of Aten Ave. Ext. drifted into the river near 16th St., Wellsville police said.

Peterson told officers he left the motor running. When he came back outside, he saw the car sinking into the water. As the water is very deep at the spot, a diver had to hook the cable from a towing truck to the bumper to haul the car out.

Mishap Hurts Young Driver

A Columbiana teen-ager was injured in one of three traffic crashes investigated over the weekend by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Edwin Leroy Unger, 19, received lacerations of the chin and mouth when his car went off the right side of Township Rd. 885, crossed back to the left, went through a fence and overturned.

The fence is owned by P. R. Coray of Columbiana R. D. 2, the patrol said. There was considerable damage to Unger's 1955 sedan. He was cited on a charge of driving left of center in the mishap Saturday at 3:10 p. m.

A car operated by Gene F. Delposen Jr., 19, of 706 Diamond St., Wellsville, and a truck driven by Donald I. Brown of Louisville sideswiped on a curve Saturday night at 8 on Route 45, three-tenths of a mile north of Wellsville. Neither was injured, the patrol said.

John B. Wissinger, 20, of New Springfield was cited Sunday at 1:15 a. m. when his auto struck the left rear and side of the car of Willis M. Barnhart, 26, of New Waterford R. D. 1.

Barnhart had halted at the junction of Township Rds. 1010 and 165, four-tenths of a mile south of the Mahoning County line, when his car was struck by Wissinger's, the patrol said.

Wissinger was cited on a charge of reckless operation.

Murder

Officers also are attempting to locate a man who identified himself as "Roger Smith." He said he discovered Mrs. Boyd's body while hunting last Wednesday and telephoned police.

He promised to meet police at the scene off the old Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd. but never has appeared.

Police said Mrs. Boyd apparently was slain with a shotgun blast fired at close range. They discovered bone fragments from her skull and spent pellets directly underneath her head. Gashes in her scalp lead the investigators to believe she was struck with a blunt instrument on an abandoned rail line and then her unconscious body was dragged about 10 yards down the hillside and the shotgun used to kill her.

thought "the captain might have been washing the blood off the deck."

The water was rising from the bilges into her room.

A short time later Harvey came into her room with something in his hand. She thought it was a rifle. He didn't speak to her but left the room and she heard hammering noises on the deck. By this time the water in the room had reached her mattress and she again went back up on the deck. She saw the dingy and the rubber raft in the water and asked Harvey if the boat were sinking.

He said "yes" and jumped overboard and got into the dinghy. She didn't see him any more as he floated away into the darkness. Then she untied the cork raft on top of the cabin and got into the water just as the main deck became awash. She said the mast did not break and she saw or smelled no fire. She heard no shots.

The child spent 3½ days clinging to the raft.

Harvey was rescued but committed suicide last Friday.

Terry Jo lost her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Dupperault; a sister, Renee, 8; and brother, Brian, 14, in the sinking of the 60-foot ketch.

Harvey, 45, whose wife, Mary, also perished, said a squall dismasted the craft and it sank after fire broke out. He was picked up by a merchant ship. Renee's body was in the dinghy with him.

At Houston, Tex., the crew of the freighter Captain Theo said the sunburned and parched Terry Jo tried to paddle the raft with her hands through circling sharks toward the ship as it stopped to pick her up.

Capt. S. L. Coutsodontis, Greek skipper of the Captain Theo, said the little girl couldn't talk for about 30 minutes.

The youngster's vitality enabled her to wave weakly as a Coast Guard helicopter took her from the Captain Theo to a Miami hospital.

She soon was reading the funnies and writing letters in her hospital room.

Youth Jailed For $6 Theft

Accused of stealing almost $6 from the First Methodist Church, a 20-year-old city youth is being held in city jail for a hearing Wednesday morning.

Charles A. Poole, 108 E. 6th St., was arraigned before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning, but asked a continuance to allow his attorney to appear. His bond was set at $500.

Poole was taken into custody Friday afternoon on E. 6th St. by Police Capt. R. H. Pyle on a charge alleging he took $5.70 in change from a box in the church last month.

The youth returned a week ago from California and was picked up Friday while Capt. Pyle was aiding in the investigation of the armed robbery of the Household Finance Co. office.

Capt. Pyle said Poole took the change from a box used by a weight-lifting class, but added that Poole apparently was not involved in a breaking and entering of the church last month.

His investigation showed the change was taken from the money box by using a key to unlock the room where the cash box was kept. The change was taken prior to the church entry, Capt. Pyle said.

Congo

Besides demanding an end to the Katangan secession proclaimed 16 months ago by President Moise Tshombe, the resolution before the council would:

1. Authorize the secretary-general to use force if necessary to deport foreign mercenaries from the Congo or detain them for Congolese legal action;

2. Ask all countries not to supply war materials to the Congo nor to let such materials pass through their territories except for the U.N. Congo force.

3. Declare determination to help the Congolese central government "maintain law and order and national integrity" and urge all U.N. members to support the Leopoldville government.

Diplomats said the United States might introduce a resolution of its own if the three sponsors did not pick up the U.S. proposals, but the Americans were anxious to avoid this because of the likelihood of a Soviet veto.

Pentecostal groups to join the council.

The additions bring the council to 198 denominations with more than 300 million members in about 60 countries.

With the exception of the Roman Catholic Church, every major confession is now "strongly represented" said Dr. W. A. Visser T'Hooft, the council general secretary.

Never before, he said, has a "greater variety of expressions of the Christian faith been brought together in one movement."

The Russian Church has a membership estimated from 30 to 90 million in a population of 250 million people.

Admission of the Russian Church culminated more than 10 years of negotiation. Dr. Visser T'Hooft said council leaders became convinced that participation of the Russian Church would serve "the cause of Christ."

Chester Boys, 6, Trap Rabbit With Help Of Mongrel

Armed with cap rifles, two 6-year-old Chester boys and a neighborhood mongrel, "Hambone," went hunting Saturday in Chester City Park — and caught a rabbit.

The boys are Michael (Mike) Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gibbs of River Ave., and Charles (Chuckie) Casto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Casto of California Ave.

The boys went "hunting" after Mike become disappointed because he couldn't go hunting with his uncle, Roy Gibbs of 6th St.

"Hambone" chased the wild rabbit into a hole and held it at bay while the boys got it out. Mike's dad dressed it.

The uncle hunted all day but didn't get a thing.

He and other young generals issued a communique saying the air force would "tolerate no attempt to institute in the country a tyrannical or reactionary regime."

Lights Being Placed On Community's Tree

Lights were to be placed today on the giant community Christmas tree in the Diamond as decorations for the holiday season were rushed in the downtown business district.

The 30-foot spruce tree was donated by Charles H. Lucas, a retired potter. Lucas is a patient at Molly Stark Hospital, Canton. The tree formerly stood on property owned by Lucas on Route 30, at the Substation.

The Sayre Electric Co. is in charge of placing the lights, with the help of the city electrical department. City workers also assisted in the erection of the tree.

At Houston, Tex., the crew of the freighter Captain Theo said the sunburned and parched Terry Jo tried to paddle the raft with her hands through circling sharks toward the ship as it stopped to pick her up.

Capt. S. L. Coutsodontis, Greek skipper of the Captain Theo, said the little girl couldn't talk for about 30 minutes.

The youngster's vitality enabled her to wave weakly as a Coast Guard helicopter took her from the Captain Theo to a Miami hospital.

Youth Jailed For $6 Theft

Accused of stealing almost $6 from the First Methodist Church, a 20-year-old city youth is being held in city jail for a hearing Wednesday morning.

Charles A. Poole, 108 E. 6th St., was arraigned before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning, but asked a continuance to allow his attorney to appear. His bond was set at $500.

Poole was taken into custody Friday afternoon on E. 6th St. by Police Capt. R. H. Pyle on a charge alleging he took $5.70 in change from a box in the church last month.

The youth returned a week ago from California and was picked up Friday while Capt. Pyle was aiding in the investigation of the armed robbery of the Household Finance Co. office.

Capt. Pyle said Poole took the change from a box used by a weight-lifting class, but added that Poole apparently was not involved in a breaking and entering of the church last month.

His investigation showed the change was taken from the money box by using a key to unlock the room where the cash box was kept. The change was taken prior to the church entry, Capt. Pyle said.

Besides demanding an end to the Katangan secession proclaimed 16 months ago by President Moise Tshombe, the resolution before the council would:

1. Authorize the secretary-general to use force if necessary to deport foreign mercenaries from the Congo or detain them for Congolese legal action;

2. Ask all countries not to supply war materials to the Congo nor to let such materials pass through their territories except for the U.N. Congo force.

3. Declare determination to help the Congolese central government "maintain law and order and national integrity" and urge all U.N. members to support the Leopoldville government.

Diplomats said the United States might introduce a resolution of its own if the three sponsors did not pick up the U.S. proposals, but the Americans were anxious to avoid this because of the likelihood of a Soviet veto.

Pentecostal groups to join the council.

The additions bring the council to 198 denominations with more than 300 million members in about 60 countries.

With the exception of the Roman Catholic Church, every major confession is now "strongly represented" said Dr. W. A. Visser T'Hooft, the council general secretary.

Never before, he said, has a "greater variety of expressions of the Christian faith been brought together in one movement."

The Russian Church has a membership estimated from 30 to 90 million in a population of 250 million people.

Admission of the Russian Church culminated more than 10 years of negotiation. Dr. Visser T'Hooft said council leaders became convinced that participation of the Russian Church would serve "the cause of Christ."

Chester Boys, 6, Trap Rabbit With Help Of Mongrel

Armed with cap rifles, two 6-year-old Chester boys and a neighborhood mongrel, "Hambone," went hunting Saturday in Chester City Park — and caught a rabbit.

The boys are Michael (Mike) Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gibbs of River Ave., and Charles (Chuckie) Casto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Casto of California Ave.

The boys went "hunting" after Mike become disappointed because he couldn't go hunting with his uncle, Roy Gibbs of 6th St.

"Hambone" chased the wild rabbit into a hole and held it at bay while the boys got it out. Mike's dad dressed it.

The uncle hunted all day but didn't get a thing.

Lights Being Placed On Community's Tree

Lights were to be placed today on the giant community Christmas tree in the Diamond as decorations for the holiday season were rushed in the downtown business district.

The 30-foot spruce tree was donated by Charles H. Lucas, a retired potter. Lucas is a patient at Molly Stark Hospital, Canton. The tree formerly stood on property owned by Lucas on Route 30, at the Substation.

The Sayre Electric Co. is in charge of placing the lights, with the help of the city electrical department. City workers also assisted in the erection of the tree.

Purger Of The Purgers

Things started out rosily for Lavrenty P. Beria in 1953, the year he was killed for trying to seize power with a gun, according to a sensational version of his downfall from Communists in Warsaw.

He was head of the Soviet secret police and in charge of atomic energy affairs. The first job made him the most feared man of the moment and the other made him the most fearsome figure of the future.

Joseph Stalin was reported to be ailing and there were three successors in sight—Lavrenty Beria and two other fellows named Malenkov and Molotov. When Stalin finally died in the early spring, three funeral orations were heard at the funeral — and the best of the three, Beria thought, was his own.

But thereafter things quit being rosy. The Malenkov - Molotov - Beria troika didn't work.

BERIA WAS accused by his teammates of every foul deed in the book. He was the scoundrel behind everything, they said. He was guilty of crimes that hadn't been thought of yet. They threw him out of the Communist party.

By the end of the year they had the poor man singing like a canary, they claimed — confessing to deeds and thoughts as if he hadn't earned his bloody reputation as the "purger of the purgers" — the Himmler of postwar Russia — the schoolmasterish executioner with the puff - adder touch.

By the end of December, his "confessions" complete, Beria's execution was announced. The year that had started out so rosily with the illness of Stalin had ended with the death of Beria. Malenkov and Molotov remained, one down and two to go. But until the Warsaw version came out, the manner of Beria's going never had been disclosed.

IT SEEMS the boys had a showdown whose purpose was to goad Beria into pulling a gun. He did. Nikita Khrushchev grappled with him. Georgi Malenkov pushed a buzzer and a friendly general with a submachine gun came in and took charge of Beria. He never was seen again.

In one-party Russia the politicians play rough. The party can't lose; it's always an inside fight, winner take all. Politicians play rough whenever the cards are stacked, so their party can't lose. That's the way they think.

It's the best of all possible reasons for keeping politicians from setting up monopolies which deny political freedom.

A Great Sense Of Humor

No One Can Leave The Congo

Nothing is harder to bear than brutality and violence practiced by Congolese against outsiders trying to help them establish their wobbly government. Why do outsiders do it?

Why, under these trying circumstances don't they shake the dust of the Congo off their shoes and leave the Congolese to fight it out? In another generation, with such encouragement as these backward people would receive from their enlightened international neighbors in the form of education grants to young Congolese to study abroad, the country would have a chance to move into the 20th century.

Why is the white man continuing to bear his proverbial burden when so many colored men in Africa openly resent his intercession?

Especially why are white men continuing to show such a lively interest in the Republic of Congo and its troubles with Katanga Province?

IS IT POSSIBLE there is a special motive for doing this, just as there was a special motive for European and American interest in the Suez complications a few years ago?

It is possible.

Interest in Suez was primarily interest in the Suez Canal's vital role in moving oil from the Middle East to markets in Europe and the United States.

Interest in the Congo is primarily interest in its rich mineral resources, including uranium ore and diamonds.

Nothing would please beleaguered United Nations troops more than to leave the Congo and its desparado leaders and undisciplined troops. It has been obvious for a long time the new republic would take at least as long to settle down as the United States needed when it became a republic under more auspicious circumstances from 1879 until the last Rebel yell has been shrieked in anger at the end of the Civil War. It will be a long time to wait to put up with chaos and violence.

But there is no possibility of complete withdrawal from the Congo, not while the Soviet Union and its Communist allies are trying to take over. As long as they keep pushing, the United States and its anti-Communist allies will resist them.

IT IS NOT customary to speak of such realities. To this day Americans do not acknowledge that the purpose of the Korean War, in which the United States bore the brunt of the savagery, was not to save Koreans from conquest so much as to keep the Communist Conspiracy from controlling the Korean peninsula.

To this day few Americans are aware that the new strong man of Korea, Gen. Pak Chung Hi, comes to the United States to ask for help because he is asking for an investment in a long-range project to keep South Korea from being controlled by an unfriendly Communist government.

There is no altruism in international relations. There are no acts dissociated from self-interest. Unless everybody can be made to leave the Congo at the same time and to stay out, no one can leave—not with all those mineral resources waiting to be exploited.

Overdue On A Gallon Of Blood

Douglas Dillon, secretary of the treasury, calls electronic processing the beginning of a new era in tax collecting. By 1966, all U.S. taxpayers accounts will be on magnetic tape.

The tape will be scanned by electronic eyes. Unreported income will be revealed as if by magic. What happens then? U.S. News & World Report asked for the answers. Some of the answers it dug out were chilling.

If electronic processing does what it's expected to do, taxpayers who have made errors, honest and otherwise, can be confronted with bills for tax obligations long gone and forgotten, such as interest on E bonds cashed in years ago.

If omissions on their old tax returns are significant and if it can be shown they were intentional, they can be made to pay a 50 per cent penalty plus 5 per cent interest.

Taxpayers struggling to meet current obligations might have to dig up payment on previous obligations that never could have been discovered without electronic processing. Formerly, spot-checking was all a taxpayer needed to be concerned about; it was a game with the odds in his favor.

The odds are stacked against him in electronic processing. He cannot object to this as far as his current taxes are concerned. But he can object to it as far as digging into back records are concerned because it is like changing the rules after the game is over and then changing the score to his disadvantage.

Or, more to the point, it is like discovering by electronic processing that Citizen A hasn't been contributing enough blood to the blood bank and should show up tomorrow morning prepared to give up back blood to the amount of one gallon, plus a pint on current account.

If electronic processing runs wild, Secretary Dillon's department's work will be greatly simplified. There won't be nearly so many taxpayers as there were before. The missing ones will have been wiped out electronically. They will be in that blessed bracket where even the tax collectors admits they're turnips—not one drop of blood to be squeezed out — not even by electronic processing.

When Royalty Earns Its Keep

Queen Elizabeth II received a royal welcome in Ghana, though she is not the sovereign of the Ghanians.

Her husband, Prince Philip, received a royal welcome, too, though he is not their prince.

President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana gave the young queen and her prince the red carpet treatment, though he is making a fetish of Ghanian independence. He has staked his life on their visit at this time, because he is the target of extremist opposition.

It was, in fact, the extremism of the opposition that caused Queen Elizabeth to go through with the visit, on the advice of her government's prime minister. If she had failed to visit Ghana, as promised, the decision might have given the extremists a chance to lead Ghana further than they have gone so far into the Communist bloc.

Ghanians are jealous of their nationalism. They are jealous of their independence. In the first emotional reaction after release from generations of outside rule, they are doing what all people do in new nations; they are going to extremes.

The question is whether they can be persuaded to stay in the British Commonwealth. The likeliest way of holding them close at this perilous time is to let them know what Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip are not afraid to visit them; that they have confidence in Ghana.

This is when royalty earns its keep. If Elizabeth and Philip ever need a new connection, they should get in touch with Washington.

The Once Over

Dozens of Soviet ships are fishing off Cape Cod not more than 50 miles from President Kennedy's summer home. On a clear day he can look out of the window and see Khrushchev.

Many folks are asking how come kids drafted to help save lives of all of us can't be guaranteed transportation in planes as safe and responsibly run as those in which diplomats, politicians and visiting notables travel? Boy drafted as fit to fight for country and made to travel to camp by air should not be endangered by unfit plane, unfit management or unfit inspectors, say we. It would not be too bad an idea if deferments were granted some kids and immediate call to camp issued to any incompetent, irresponsible or careless airline figures involved in dangerous faulty transportation.

How The Guerrillas Do It

By John Stirling

SAIGON

Gen. Giap, commander of the "People's Army" of Communist North Viet Nam, has published a handbook on guerilla war, designed to become the blueprint for the Communist terrorist leaders in South Viet Nam.

"Publication of this book is most timely," the foreward says, "great obstacles still stand in the way of the peoples struggling for their liberation . . . Half of Viet Nam's territory is still under the heel of a new-type colonialism "Made in the U.S.A.' "

Gen. Giap's book, "People's War—People's Army," explains how a small, badly-armed force of guerrillas can defeat a large army, equipped with the most modern weapons.

GEN. GIAP is no armchair strategist. He is describing the techniques of guerrilla fighting which he himself perfected in eight years of war against the French in Indo-China. He is the victor of Dien Bien Phu, the last catastrophic battle of that war.

Gen. Giap was born in 1909, and began his political life while still a college student in Hue, in central Viet Nam. By 1930, he was well known in Hanoi as a Communist journalist. In 1944, he was entrusted by the Central Committee of the Viet Minh (Communist Party) to organize the first armed units which took up arms against the French when they tried to restore their authority in Indo-China after World War II.

From these beginnings, Gen. Giap built up the "Liberation Army." Its guerrilla fighters did not attempt to meet the French Expeditionary Corps on French terms. Instead, Gen. Giap's men withdrew, first from the towns, then from the villages, compelling the French to fight among rice fields and jungles of Viet Nam.

HERE THE guerrillas were in their element. French tanks, artillery—even bombers—were almost useless. Eventually the French were forced into a strategy of holding the main lines of communication by means of forts and blockhouses.

Some areas they dominated by sheer weight of numbers. But outside the towns and the French forts, the Communist guerrillas moved freely among the people, like fish through water. Gen. Giap and other Viet Minh leaders had learned from Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung the most important principle of guerrilla war—that the people must be won over, or must at least remain neutral.

In his new book, Gen. Giap emphasizes that the "crucial question" was to educate, mobilize, organize and arm the whole people to take part in the anti-French war.

His second basic principle, is, surprisingly, "long-lasting war." It was necessary, Gen. Giap writes, to grasp firmly the strategy of a long-term resistance. "Thousands of small victories accumulate into a great success, and carry off the final victory." Those who were impatient and aimed at speedy victory were on the wrong track, Gen. Giap declares.

THE ENEMY was stronger in numbers and material. Therefore Gen. Giap ordered his troops to harass enemy garrisons to prevent their spreading out too rapidly. When the enemy mounted a counter-offensive, the guerrillas pulled back. Clearly, these tactics could succeed only when the entire guerrilla army understood that the war was not going to end quickly. Otherwise, morale might have collapsed.

His forces were organized in three main formations — paramilitary groups (or true guerrillas), regional troops and regular units. Using the regional and regular units, the Communists gradually formed a network of guerrilla bases which ceaselessly spread and multiplied and began to appear in the heart of the occupied areas. Within these "red zones," primitive arms factories were set up to produce rifles and mortars out of iron piping.

"But these factories," Gen. Giap writes, "were far from being able to meet all our needs. A great part of our supplies came from the enemy . . . The French Expeditionary Corps became unwittingly the supplier of the People's Army with French and American arms."

GEN. GIAP'S book may be studied closely by the general staffs in Saigon and Washington; experts in counter-guerrilla war may work out successful answers to the methods preached; but it would be a mistake merely to classify the book under the heading: "Military Studies."

For the constant theme is that political struggle and military operations are inseparable. In a review of the book published recently in North Viet Nam, this point was hammered home. "If there is an art of insurrection," the review declared, "the essential of this art is to secure the correct relationship between the norms of political struggle and armed struggle."

This means simply that the people must be won over, or a guerrilla war cannot succeed. That is one of the basic principles which will most repay study in the West. The struggle in South Vietnam is fundamentally a struggle for the hearts and minds of the peasants. Here in Saigon one is sometimes told that the time for political concessions has passed; that only a military solution remains. It was exactly that miscalculation which led the French divisions to defeat by Gen. Giap's "People's Army."

There's No Peace

By Richard C. Wald

BERLIN

On Wednesdays at 10 a. m. two small trucks pull in to a bombed-out lot on Heinrich Heine Stasse in the East Sector of Berlin and trade the ashes of the dead.

With few words and under close watch, the black trucks switch 10 or 15 black aluminum cylinders from one to the other and then they separate, East and West.

It is an almost unknown transaction and almost the only way left for a Berliner to cross the sector border. But even these access rights of the dead are being slowly pared away, without any guarantee the exchanges will continue.

This city, like any great city, belongs not simply to the living that hold it but also to the dead who built it and rest in it, and they are all cut off by the Communist wall of August 13.

Berlin is really a collection of small communities each with its own cemetery, each with its own family associations. Long before the wall went up, families had moved miles away but still regarded the old village center as home.

ON SOME occasions, Berliners could travel 25 miles or more to visit a family grave, and still stay within the city.

Then the Communists began their slow erosion of free circulation in Berlin and a weird sort of funeral became commonplace.

A service would be held in West Berlin for the family on this side of the Iron Curtain, then the big - windowed hearse with its banks of flowers would go slowly across town, alone, to a second service on the other side where the interment would take place.

Living Berliners were not allowed to cross the line and the corpse was subject to inspection.

"After they closed the borders, it became far more complicated," explained Heinz Neff, a manager of Grieneisen, the city's major undertaking firm.

"If a man would die and his family would want him to rest with his parents in the East sector, it would need first a paper from the cemetery saying he could be taken, then from the local government saying that it would be permitted, then from the sector police. And then the driver of the hearse needs a passport.

Three weeks ago, even this concession stopped. The police officer was taken away. If a man died in West Berlin and his family wanted to bring him across the border, they had to get all the permission papers and then find an undertaker in East Berlin to meet the West Berlin hearse at Heinrich Heine Strasse.

IT IS A checkpoint for Berliners and therefore is not busy. There, by the police tents, the East and West hearses approach back to back. The coffin is shifted, the big cars separate and no one can follow.

Adenauer's Role

By James Marlow

German Leader Nears End Of Career

WASHINGTON

An old man, who for 12 years nursed an idea which now seems as forlorn as the last leaf the wind has forgotten, today began another round in a career which is coming to a close.

At 85, West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer is the oldest head of a major government. He came here to talk with President Kennedy about Berlin, the Russians, and East Germany. What he has in mind isn't clear at all at this point.

He is still vigorous but he is on his way out. An Associated Press report from Bonn this month talked of German "resentment that has built up over the years to his authoritarian ways."

It was demonstrated last September when in West Germany's elections his Christian Democratic party failed to win a majority in Parliament. He had to seek the support of the Free Democrats in order to get re-elected chancellor once more.

After seven weeks of haggling, the Free Democrats exacted a price. They were willing to put up with him but not indefinitely. On Nov. 8 he gave them a written guarantee he would retire before his term's end in 1965. It may be in 1963.

It is against this background that he is here—a leader whose days are numbered—to discuss with Kennedy solutions which will affect the future of Europe and therefore the Western alliance against communism.

Under his leadership, but with large American help, his country has risen from devastation to a soaring prosperity which 12 years ago might have seemed unbelievable. But his vision was broader than Germany.

He led his country into the Western Alliance. Through his relations with French President Charles de Gaulle he has sought to dry up the ancient German-French enmity.

He took his country into the European common market, which may do more for the prosperity of that area than any single act in history.

The result may be a Western Europe so powerful and united that it will be truly a third world force—no longer looking to this country for protection or leadership—which will be a balance between the United States and Russia.

These are tremendous achievements and prospects, so much so that the growing strength of West Germany gave Premier Khrushchev added incentive for wishing the Western Alliance dissolved.

By demanding the Allies get out of West Berlin, Khrushchev has challenged West Germany.

Unless some understanding is reached with him by the Allies, West Berlin may slowly be shut off from the West even though its links are with West Germany. Adenauer hasn't produced any solutions to meet or offset Khrushchev's tactics.

While the United States and Britain have shown inclination to negotiate with the Russians, Adenauer and De Gaulle have been reluctant to do anything but stand stiff.

Thus, out of the Kennedy-Adenauer talks may come the beginning of an agreed policy. But it is at this point that Adenauer seems to have nothing clear in mind and even sounds confused.

For example, he said the wall which the East German Communists erected between West and East Berlin must come down as a condition for settlement. But his new foreign minister, Gerhard Schroeder, thought it necessary to tone this down.

He said the wall must come down but added: "We must be careful not to set up pre-conditions that are actually ultimatums." He said West Germany would not insist the wall must come down before the start of East-West talks.

For 12 years Adenauer has kept alive the idea that East and West Germany must be reunited. This country backed him up on that. It was never realistic because Khrushchev would not permit a new, unified Germany, particularly if it allied itself with the West.

So, while this country may still help Adenauer keep his dream alive by saying it will not recognize the East German Communists as the real government of East Germany, it is not likely to waste much time talking unification.

Adenauer will almost certainly not see a united Germany. It remains an old man's dream.

Tribute To Mr. Sam

By Raymond Moley

In 1933, during the weeks when President-elect Roosevelt was selecting his Cabinet and planning his policies, I once found myself sitting with Sam Rayburn in a dining car on the way from Warm Springs to Washington. In our discussion of what was likely to happen in the new administration, Rayburn paused and, with his characteristic caution, peered behind him and across the car to see if anyone was within earshot. Then, leaning forward, he said in a low voice, "I hope there won't be any durned Rasputins around the White House."

I was startled, because I was destined to be a handy-man there myself. But Sam's kindly look dispelled that concern. It appeared that he was referring to Louis Howe, who had faithfully served Mr. Roosevelt for years and was to be his secretary. Louis loved the role of mystery man just as he loved detective stories.

Rayburn well remembered the resentment in Congress during the Wilson Administration because of the influence of Colonel House. He wanted no more of that. In fact, if there were to be any mysteries, congressmen preferred those of their own creation.

BUT THERE WAS a basic constitutional tradition behind Rayburn's remark—a lesson I have never forgotten. He had at that time already served 20 years and voters had repeatedly given him a mandate. He enjoyed sovereign rights as a member of the coordinate branch of the government. He wanted no mere appointees or friends of the President to lurk in the highway to the White House.

Ten years before the election of Rayburn in his Northeastern Texas district, John Nance Garner had been elected in West Texas. Garner was a veteran when Rayburn was a freshman. In some respects he overshadowed Rayburn. During the Wilson years he was a friend and confidant of the President. After Wilson, Garner felt that no president measured up to presidential requirements.

Garner also was more aggressive than Rayburn. More cocky. More spectacular and much more conservative. While he served as vice president he openly opposed much of the New Deal, especially the Roosevelt labor and spending policies.

Rayburn was more cautious in his relations with presidents, seven of whom he saw come and go before the coming of the present incumbent.

As majority leader and later as speaker, he seldom disagreed openly with a president. But when he felt that some measure recommended by a president was unsound, he told him, "Mr. President, I just can't get the votes for you on that." That usually settled the matter.

It is absurd to say, as some commentators have written that in the scramble for the vice presidency in 1944 Rayburn had no ambitions for that nomination. He wanted it because he believed, as did every other aspirant that year, that Mr. Roosevelt could not live out another term.

On another occasion he had a hand in nominating a vice president. His was the contact with Garner (along with William Randolph Hearst) which released the Texas and California delegations in 1932 and thus made the nomination of the New York governor possible.

OUR MEETING IN 1933 to which I have referred was the beginning of a long friendship which was marred by no exchange of favors.

The only time he asked anything of me was when, as a candidate for promotion from the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee to the majority leadership, he suggested that I ask President Roosevelt to help. I did so and received from FDR in reply an eloquent speech about the necessity that the president keep hands off the decisions of Congress. That speech, commented Rayburn sadly when I told him, was "for the birds."

His judgment was proved later when in the famous "Dear Alben" letter the President openly boosted Senator Barkley into the Senate majority leadership.

When Rayburn left Washington this year, something was lost in the traditions of the House—something created by his respect for the prerogatives of Congress, his sage advice to new members, his patience with unreasoning zealots who are so often thrown into office in congressional races, and his long-standing respects for the rights of veteran chairmen of House committees.

Purger Of The Purgers

Things started out rosily for Lavrenty P. Beria in 1953, the year he was killed for trying to seize power with a gun, according to a sensational version of his downfall from Communists in Warsaw.

He was head of the Soviet secret police and in charge of atomic energy affairs. The first job made him the most feared man of the moment and the other made him the most fearsome figure of the future.

Joseph Stalin was reported to be ailing and there were three successors in sight—Lavrenty Beria and two other fellows named Malenkov and Molotov. When Stalin finally died in the early spring, three funeral orations were heard at the funeral — and the best of the three, Beria thought, was his own.

But thereafter things quit being rosy. The Malenkov - Molotov - Beria troika didn't work.

BERIA WAS accused by his teammates of every foul deed in the book. He was the scoundrel behind everything, they said. He was quilty of crimes that hadn't been thought of yet. They threw him out of the Communist party.

By the end of the year they had the poor man singing like a canary, they claimed — confessing to deeds and thoughts as if he hadn't earned his bloody reputation as the "purger of the purgers" — the Himmler of postwar Russia — the schoolmasterish executioner with the puff - adder touch.

By the end of December, his "confessions" complete, Beria's execution was announced. The year that had started out so rosily with the illness of Stalin had ended with the death of Beria. Malenkov and Molotov remained, one down and two to go. But until the Warsaw version came out, the manner of Beria's going never had been disclosed.

IT SEEMS the boys had a showdown whose purpose was to goad Beria into pulling a gun. He did. Nikita Khrushchev grappled with him. Georgi Malenkov pushed a buzzer and a friendly general with a submachine gun came in and took charge of Beria. He never was seen again.

In one-party Russia the politicians play rough. The party can't lose; it's always an inside fight, winner take all. Politicians play rough whenever the cards are stacked, so their party can't lose. That's the way they think.

It's the best of all possible reasons for keeping politicians from setting up monopolies which deny political freedom.

No One Can Leave The Congo

Nothing is harder to bear than brutality and violence practiced by Congolese against outsiders trying to help them establish their wobbly government. Why do outsiders do it?

Why, under these trying circumstances don't they shake the dust of the Congo off their shoes and leave the Congolese to fight it out? In another generation, with such encouragement as these backward people would receive from their enlightened international neighbors in the form of education grants to young Congolese to study abroad, the country would have a chance to move into the 20th century.

Why is the white man continuing to bear his proverbial burden when so many colored men in Africa openly resent his intercession?

Especially why are white men continuing to show such a lively interest in the Republic of Congo and its troubles with Katanga Province?

IS IT POSSIBLE there is a special motive for doing this, just as there was a special motive for European and American interest in the Suez complications a few years ago?

It is possible.

Interest in Suez was primarily interest in the Suez Canal's vital role in moving oil from the Middle East to markets in Europe and the United States.

Interest in the Congo is primarily interest in its rich mineral resources, including uranium ore and diamonds.

Nothing would please beleaguered United Nations troops more than to leave the Congo and its desparado leaders and undisciplined troops. It has been obvious for a long time the new republic would take at least as long to settle down as the United States needed when it became a republic under more auspicious circumstances from 1879 until the last Rebel yell has been shrieked in anger at the end of the Civil War. It will be a long time to wait to put up with chaos and violence.

But there is no possibility of complete withdrawal from the Congo, not while the Soviet Union and its Communist allies are trying to take over. As long as they keep pushing, the United States and its anti-Communist allies will resist them.

IT IS NOT customary to speak of such realities. To this day Americans do not acknowledge that the purpose of the Korean War, in which the United States bore the brunt of the savagery, was not to save Koreans from conquest so much as to keep the Communist Conspiracy from controlling the Korean peninsula.

To this day few Americans are aware that the new strong man of Korea, Gen. Pak Chung Hi, comes to the United States to ask for help because he is asking for an investment in a long-range project to keep South Korea from being controlled by an unfriendly Communist government.

There is no altruism in international relations. There are no acts dissociated from self-interest. Unless everybody can be made to leave the Congo at the same time and to stay out, no one can leave—not with all those mineral resources waiting to be exploited.

Overdue On A Gallon Of Blood

Douglas Dillon, secretary of the treasury, calls electronic processing the beginning of a new era in tax collecting. By 1966, all U.S. taxpayers accounts will be on magnetic tape.

The tape will be scanned by electronic eyes. Unreported income will be revealed as if by magic. What happens then? U.S. News & World Report asked for the answers. Some of the answers it dug out were chilling.

If electronic processing does what it's expected to do, taxpayers who have made errors, honest and otherwise, can be confronted with bills for tax obligations long gone and forgotten, such as interest on E bonds cashed in years ago.

If omissions on their old tax returns are significant and if it can be shown they were intentional, they can be made to pay a 50 per cent penalty plus 5 per cent interest.

Taxpayers struggling to meet current obligations might have to dig up payment on previous obligations that never could have been discovered without electronic processing. Formerly, spot-checking was all a taxpayer needed to be concerned about; it was a game with the odds in his favor.

The odds are stacked against him in electronic processing. He cannot object to this as far as his current taxes are concerned. But he can object to it as far as digging into back records are concerned because it is like changing the rules after the game is over and then changing the score to his disadvantage.

Or, more to the point, it is like discovering by electronic processing that Citizen A hasn't been contributing enough blood to the blood bank and should show up tomorrow morning prepared to give up back blood to the amount of one gallon, plus a pint on current account.

If electronic processing runs wild, Secretary Dillon's department's work will be greatly simplified. There won't be nearly so many taxpayers as there were before. The missing ones will have been wiped out electronically. They will be in that blessed bracket where even the tax collectors admits they're turnips—not one drop of blood to be squeezed out — not even by electronic processing.

When Royalty Earns Its Keep

Queen Elizabeth II received a royal welcome in Ghana, though she is not the sovereign of the Ghanians.

Her husband, Prince Philip, received a royal welcome, too, though he is not their prince.

President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana gave the young queen and her prince the red carpet treatment, though he is making a fetish of Ghanian independence. He has staked his life on their visit at this time, because he is the target of extremist opposition.

It was, in fact, the extremism of the opposition that caused Queen Elizabeth to go through with the visit, on the advice of her government's prime minister. If she had failed to visit Ghana, as promised, the decision might have given the extremists a chance to lead Ghana further than they have gone so far into the Communist bloc.

Ghanians are jealous of their nationalism. They are jealous of their independence. In the first emotional reaction after release from generations of outside rule, they are doing what all people do in new nations; they are going to extremes.

The question is whether they can be persuaded to stay in the British Commonwealth. The likeliest way of holding them close at this perilous time is to let them know what Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip are not afraid to visit them; that they have confidence in Ghana.

This is when royalty earns its keep. If Elizabeth and Philip ever need a new connection, they should get in touch with Washington.

The Once Over

Dozens of Soviet ships are fishing off Cape Cod not more than 50 miles from President Kennedy's summer home. On a clear day he can look out of the window and see Khrushchev.

Many folks are asking how come kids drafted to help save lives of all of us can't be guaranteed transportation in planes as safe and responsibly run as those in which diplomats, politicians and visiting notables travel? Boy drafted as fit to fight for country and made to travel to camp by air should not be endangered by unfit plane, unfit management or unfit inspectors, say we. It would not be too bad an idea if deferments were granted some kids and immediate call to camp issued to any incompetent, irresponsible or careless airline figures involved in dangerous faulty transportation.

A Great Sense Of Humor

How The Guerrillas Do It

By John Stirling

SAIGON

Gen. Giap, commander of the "People's Army" of Communist North Viet Nam, has published a handbook on guerilla war, designed to become the blueprint for the Communist terrorist leaders in South Viet Nam.

"Publication of this book is most timely," the foreward says, "great obstacles still stand in the way of the peoples struggling for their liberation . . . Half of Viet Nam's territory is still under the heel of a new-type colonialism "Made in the U.S.A.' "

Gen. Giap's book, "People's War—People's Army," explains how a small, badly-armed force of guerrillas can defeat a large army, equipped with the most modern weapons.

GEN. GIAP is no armchair strategist. He is describing the techniques of guerrilla fighting which he himself perfected in eight years of war against the French in Indo-China. He is the victor of Dien Bien Phu, the last catastrophic battle of that war.

Gen. Giap was born in 1909, and began his political life while still a college student in Hue, in central Viet Nam. By 1930, he was well known in Hanoi as a Communist journalist. In 1944, he was entrusted by the Central Committee of the Viet Minh (Communist Party) to organize the first armed units which took up arms against the French when they tried to restore their authority in Indo-China after World War II.

From these beginnings, Gen. Giap built up the "Liberation Army." Its guerrilla fighters did not attempt to meet the French Expeditionary Corps on French terms. Instead, Gen. Giap's men withdrew, first from the towns, then from the villages, compelling the French to fight among rice fields and jungles of Viet Nam.

HERE THE guerrillas were in their element. French tanks, artillery—even bombers—were almost useless. Eventually the French were forced into a strategy of holding the main lines of communication by means of forts and blockhouses.

Some areas they dominated by sheer weight of numbers. But outside the towns and the French forts, the Communist guerrillas moved freely among the people, like fish through water. Gen. Giap and other Viet Minh leaders had learned from Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung the most important principle of guerrilla war—that the people must be won over, or must at least remain neutral.

In his new book, Gen. Giap emphasizes that the "crucial question" was to educate, mobilize, organize and arm the whole people to take part in the anti-French war.

His second basic principle, is, surprisingly, "long-lasting war." It was necessary, Gen. Giap writes, to grasp firmly the strategy of a long-term resistance. "Thousands of small victories accumulate into a great success, and carry off the final victory." Those who were impatient and aimed at speedy victory were on the wrong track, Gen. Giap declares.

THE ENEMY was stronger in numbers and material. Therefore Gen. Giap ordered his troops to harass enemy garrisons to prevent their spreading out too rapidly. When the enemy mounted a counter-offensive, the guerrillas pulled back. Clearly, these tactics could succeed only when the entire guerrilla army understood that the war was not going to end quickly. Otherwise, morale might have collapsed.

His forces were organized in three main formations — paramilitary groups (or true guerrillas), regional troops and regular units. Using the regional and regular units, the Communists gradually formed a network of guerrilla bases which ceaselessly spread and multiplied and began to appear in the heart of the occupied areas. Within these "red zones," primitive arms factories were set up to produce rifles and mortars out of iron piping.

"But these factories," Gen. Giap writes, "were far from being able to meet all our needs. A great part of our supplies came from the enemy . . . The French Expeditionary Corps became unwittingly the supplier of the People's Army with French and American arms."

GEN. GIAP'S book may be studied closely by the general staffs in Saigon and Washington; experts in counter-guerrilla war may work out successful answers to the methods preached; but it would be a mistake merely to classify the book under the heading: "Military Studies."

For the constant theme is that political struggle and military operations are inseparable. In a review of the book published recently in North Viet Nam, this point was hammered home. "If there is an art of insurrection," the review declared, "the essential of this art is to secure the correct relationship between the norms of political struggle and armed struggle."

This means simply that the people must be won over, or a guerrilla war cannot succeed. That is one of the basic principles which will most repay study in the West. The struggle in South Vietnam is fundamentally a struggle for the hearts and minds of the peasants. Here in Saigon one is sometimes told that the time for political concessions has passed; that only a military solution remains. It was exactly that miscalculation which led the French divisions to defeat by Gen. Giap's "People's Army."

There's No Peace

By Richard C. Wald

BERLIN

On Wednesdays at 10 a. m. two small trucks pull in to a bombed-out lot on Heinrich Heine Stasse in the East Sector of Berlin and trade the ashes of the dead.

With few words and under close watch, the black trucks switch 10 or 15 black aluminum cylinders from one to the other and then they separate, East and West.

It is an almost unknown transaction and almost the only way left for a Berliner to cross the sector border. But even these access rights of the dead are being slowly pared away, without any guarantee the exchanges will continue.

This city, like any great city, belongs not simply to the living that hold it but also to the dead who built it and rest in it, and they are all cut off by the Communist wall of August 13.

Berlin is really a collection of small communities each with its own cemetery, each with its own family associations. Long before the wall went up, families had moved miles away but still regarded the old village center as home.

ON SOME occasions, Berliners could travel 25 miles or more to visit a family grave, and still stay within the city.

Then the Communists began their slow erosion of free circulation in Berlin and a weird sort of funeral became commonplace.

A service would be held in West Berlin for the family on this side of the Iron Curtain, then the big - windowed hearse with its banks of flowers would go slowly across town, alone, to a second service on the other side where the interment would take place.

Living Berliners were not allowed to cross the line and the corpse was subject to inspection.

"After they closed the borders, it became far more complicated," explained Heinz Neff, a manager of Grieneisen, the city's major undertaking firm.

"If a man would die and his family would want him to rest with his parents in the East sector, it would need first a paper from the cemetery saying he could be taken, then from the local government saying that it would be permitted, then from the sector police. And then the driver of the hearse needs a passport.

Three weeks ago, even this concession stopped. The police officer was taken away. If a man died in West Berlin and his family wanted to bring him across the border, they had to get all the permission papers and then find an undertaker in East Berlin to meet the West Berlin hearse at Heinrich Heine Strasse.

IT IS A checkpoint for Berliners and therefore is not busy. There, by the police tents, the East and West hearses approach back to back. The coffin is shifted, the big cars separate and no one can follow.

Adenauer's Role

By James Marlow

German Leader Nears End Of Career

WASHINGTON

An old man, who for 12 years nursed an idea which now seems as forlorn as the last leaf the wind has forgotten, today began another round in a career which is coming to a close.

At 85, West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer is the oldest head of a major government. He came here to talk with President Kennedy about Berlin, the Russians, and East Germany. What he has in mind isn't clear at all at this point.

He is still vigorous but he is on his way out. An Associated Press report from Bonn this month talked of German "resentment that has built up over the years to his authoritarian ways."

It was demonstrated last September when in West Germany's elections his Christian Democratic party failed to win a majority in Parliament. He had to seek the support of the Free Democrats in order to get re-elected chancellor once more.

After seven weeks of haggling, the Free Democrats exacted a price. They were willing to put up with him but not indefinitely. On Nov. 8 he gave them a written guarantee he would retire before his term's end in 1965. It may be in 1963.

It is against this background that he is here—a leader whose days are numbered—to discuss with Kennedy solutions which will affect the future of Europe and therefore the Western alliance against communism.

Under his leadership, but with large American help, his country has risen from devastation to a soaring prosperity which 12 years ago might have seemed unbelievable. But his vision was broader than Germany.

He led his country into the Western Alliance. Through his relations with French President Charles de Gaulle he has sought to dry up the ancient German-French enmity.

He took his country into the European common market, which may do more for the prosperity of that area than any single act in history.

The result may be a Western Europe so powerful and united that it will be truly a third world force—no longer looking to this country for protection or leadership—which will be a balance between the United States and Russia.

These are tremendous achievements and prospects, so much so that the growing strength of West Germany gave Premier Khrushchev added incentive for wishing the Western Alliance dissolved.

By demanding the Allies get out of West Berlin, Khrushchev has challenged West Germany.

Unless some understanding is reached with him by the Allies, West Berlin may slowly be shut off from the West even though its links are with West Germany. Adenauer hasn't produced any solutions to meet or offset Khrushchev's tactics.

While the United States and Britain have shown inclination to negotiate with the Russians, Adenauer and De Gaulle have been reluctant to do anything but stand stiff.

Thus, out of the Kennedy-Adenauer talks may come the beginning of an agreed policy. But it is at this point that Adenauer seems to have nothing clear in mind and even sounds confused.

For example, he said the wall which the East German Communists erected between West and East Berlin must come down as a condition for settlement. But his new foreign minister, Gerhard Schroeder, thought it necessary to tone this down.

He said the wall must come down but added: "We must be careful not to set up pre-conditions that are actually ultimatums." He said West Germany would not insist the wall must come down before the start of East-West talks.

For 12 years Adenauer has kept alive the idea that East and West Germany must be reunited. This country backed him up on that. It was never realistic because Khrushchev would not permit a new, unified Germany, particularly if it allied itself with the West.

So, while this country may still help Adenauer keep his dream alive by saying it will not recognize the East German Communists as the real government of East Germany, it is not likely to waste much time talking unification.

Adenauer will almost certainly not see a united Germany. It remains an old man's dream.

Tribute To Mr. Sam

By Raymond Moley

In 1933, during the weeks when President-elect Roosevelt was selecting his Cabinet and planning his policies, I once found myself sitting with Sam Rayburn in a dining car on the way from Warm Springs to Washington. In our discussion of what was likely to happen in the new administration, Rayburn paused and, with his characteristic caution, peered behind him and across the car to see if anyone was within earshot. Then, leaning forward, he said in a low voice, "I hope there won't be any durned Rasputins around the White House."

I was startled, because I was destined to be a handy-man there myself. But Sam's kindly look dispelled that concern. Talks and British troops in West Berlin.

They also agree that West Berlin's access routes to West Germany across Communist East Germany must be kept open, and they consider workable ties between West Berlin and West Germany essential to the city's survival.

The points of difference lie just beyond these agreed fundamentals:

1. Adenauer insisted last week that the Soviet government must agree to destroy the wall built by East Germany to seal off East Berlin from West Berlin. The Kennedy administration is known to favor demanding that the Soviet Union destroy the barrier, but officials do not think there is any chance Soviet Premier Khrushchev will agree. They do not want to make removal of the wall an absolute requirement of a Western-Soviet Berlin settlement package.

2. There is strong pressure in West Germany to strengthen the ties between West Berlin and the German government at Bonn. Some West German officials favor treating West Berlin as another West German state in spite of the separation by 110 miles of East German territory. Kennedy administration officials do not regard this as a practical possibility in negotiations with the U.S.S.R. although they agree that West Berlin must have strong and healthy economic relations with West Germany and they aim at preserving the political link.

3. Another problem is that of contacts between West Germany and Communist East Germany. None of the Western powers recognizes East Germany. The United States has been reported favoring the modification of Western attitudes on this point to the extent of making practical arrangements with East German authorities for operation of the supply line and perhaps in other fields as part of a general Berlin settlement. West Germany has made trade agreements with East Germany but has been reluctant to take any step which seemed to suggest recognition of the Red regime.

4. Still another issue turns on the question of what to do about the long-range Western aim of German reunification. Adenauer is reported to believe it is vitally important for the West to press the Soviet Union once more to agree that the ultimate future of Berlin lies in becoming the capital of a united Germany.

5. There is an unresolved question, officials said, as to whether the formula for negotiations with the Russians should be broad or narrow. The difference between the two concepts apparely lies in issues which might be taken up in an East-West conference on Berlin and German problems and which lie in the field of European security.

hour and the local auto was northbound about 30 miles an hour, officers reported. The woman driver said she saw the Johnson's car was across the center line and she pulled to the right as far as possible in an unsuccessful attempt to avoid a collision.

Johnson was fined $10 and costs by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after pleading guilty to the citation.

A mishap on Broadway near E. 6th St. Sunday at 2 p. m. damaged a 1955 two-door sedan driven by Grace Evelyn Hoffman, 35, of 9th Ave., LaCroft, and a 1959 four-door sedan operated by Thomas Colella, 53, of New Waterford R. D. 1, police said. The woman driver said she was proceeding south on Broadway when Colella backed from a parking space.

A similar mishap was listed Saturday at 3:35 p. m. on Mulberry St.

Police said it involved a 1960 model station wagon driven by Shirley Mae Green, 26, of 1625 Allison St. and a 1939 model coupe operated by Frank R. Seitz, 26, of R. D. 2.

Seitz said he was driving south on Mulberry St. when the woman driver pulled from a parking place.

A collision this morning at Thompson Ave. and Ravine St. damaged cars operated by Mrs. Hazel W. Neiser, 54, of 521 Wedgewood Ave. and Melvin C. Harris, 20, of 1054 Pennsylvania Ave., police said.

The left sides of both cars were damaged, police said.

morning the prahu was sighted again 14 miles off the coast.

Wassing was taken aboard a naval craft this morning at 9 a.m. and is in good health, the announcement said.

Wassing and Rockefeller were apparently in the swampy delta mouth of the river when their outboard engine fell off and the prahu was swept by the current into Flamingo Bay, part of the Arafura Sea.

Maps show that this swampy coastal area is about 100 miles wide, but some hamlets—such as Birufu and Agats—are situated there.

"I hope they find him before I get there, but I want to be there," the governor told newsmen before departing Idlewild Airport on a trip that was to touch at San Francisco and Tokyo.

The Rockefeller party did not include Mrs. Rockefeller, from whom the governor has separated after 31 years of marriage.

Michael, 23, was on a hunt for primitive art and sculpture in an area described by a recent companion as "one of the wildest parts of the world."

Young Rockefeller and an unidentified Dutch companion were last seen when they were out in a small boat off the primitive southern coast, according to the Dutch Interior Ministry at the Hague, Netherlands.

The ministry said Dutch naval vessels had been sent to search the Eilandenriver (River of the Island) and to scan the coast and sea in that vicinity.

Officials in Port Moresby, capital of Australian New Guinea, reported early today that information received by government sources there indicated that Michael was missing in swamp lands about 250 miles northwest of Merauke, Dutch New Guinea.

Young Rockefeller had gone to New Guinea last March to join a Harvard anthropological expedition in the mountainious jungle interior. After the team broke up, he remained to search for primitive artifacts in a southern area known as Asmat.

The area was described by Dutch officials as a "controlled" one, meaning that it is relatively civilized.

In Boston, a student who accompanied young Rockefeller on the original expedition said the area where Michael is reported missing is not considered hazardous.

Other members of the original expedition said many of the fierce tribes were but a few years removed from the head-hunting stage.

Dr. Robert C. Gardner, director of the film study center at Harvard, headed the expedition. He said tribes in the area it had penetrated rated their prestige among their fellow-tribesmen on the number of enemies they killed.

Gardner accompanied Gov. Rockefeller on the hurried flight to the search area. He said he hoped his familiarity with the terrain there might be of some aid.

A caucus of House Democrats will select the new speaker and floor leader shortly before the House reconvenes Jan. 10. Unless Bolling or Albert withdraws before then, the caucus could develop into a knock-down, party-splitting affair that could jeopardize President Kennedy's legislative program, already in trouble in the House.

Bolling, 45, has long been identified with the liberal group in the House, although he calls himself a moderate. He has served since 1949 and is a member of the powerful Rules Committee, where he was Rayburn's chief spokesman

Albert arrived at the House two years before Bolling and has been party whip—or assistant leader—for the past seven years. He is 53 and calls himself a moderate.

Supporting Albert is a strong group of Southerners headed by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., chairman of the Rules Committee. He also has backing among Northern Democrats.

Bolling's supporters claim the backing of most of the Northern and Western liberals as well as some Southerners.

and British troops in West Berlin.

They also agree that West Berlin's access routes to West Germany across Communist East Germany must be kept open, and they consider workable ties between West Berlin and West Germany essential to the city's survival.

The points of difference lie just beyond these agreed fundamentals:

1. Adenauer insisted last week that the Soviet government must agree to destroy the wall built by East Germany to seal off East Berlin from West Berlin. The Kennedy administration is known to favor demanding that the Soviet Union destroy the barrier, but officials do not think there is any chance Soviet Premier Khrushchev will agree. They do not want to make removal of the wall an absolute requirement of a Western-Soviet Berlin settlement package.

2. There is strong pressure in West Germany to strengthen the ties between West Berlin and the German government at Bonn. Some West German officials favor treating West Berlin as another West German state in spite of the separation by 110 miles of East German territory. Kennedy administration officials do not regard this as a practical possibility in negotiations with the U.S.S.R. although they agree that West Berlin must have strong and healthy economic relations with West Germany and they aim at preserving the political link.

3. Another problem is that of contacts between West Germany and Communist East Germany. None of the Western powers recognizes East Germany. The United States has been reported favoring the modification of Western attitudes on this point to the extent of making practical arrangements with East German authorities for operation of the supply line and perhaps in other fields as part of a general Berlin settlement. West Germany has made trade agreements with East Germany but has been reluctant to take any step which seemed to suggest recognition of the Red regime.

4. Still another issue turns on the question of what to do about the long-range Western aim of German reunification. Adenauer is reported to believe it is vitally important for the West to press the Soviet Union once more to agree that the ultimate future of Berlin lies in becoming the capital of a united Germany.

5. There is an unresolved question, officials said, as to whether the formula for negotiations with the Russians should be broad or narrow. The difference between the two concepts apparely lies in issues which might be taken up in an East-West conference on Berlin and German problems and which lie in the field of European security.

hour and the local auto was northbound about 30 miles an hour, officers reported. The woman driver said she saw the Johnson's car was across the center line and she pulled to the right as far as possible in an unsuccessful attempt to avoid a collision.

Johnson was fined $10 and costs by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after pleading guilty to the citation.

A mishap on Broadway near E. 6th St. Sunday at 2 p. m. damaged a 1955 two-door sedan driven by Grace Evelyn Hoffman, 35, of 9th Ave., LaCroft, and a 1959 four-door sedan operated by Thomas Colella, 53, of New Waterford R. D. 1, police said. The woman driver said she was proceeding south on Broadway when Colella backed from a parking space.

A similar mishap was listed Saturday at 3:35 p. m. on Mulberry St.

Police said it involved a 1960 model station wagon driven by Shirley Mae Green, 26, of 1625 Allison St. and a 1939 model coupe operated by Frank R. Seitz, 26, of R. D. 2.

Seitz said he was driving south on Mulberry St. when the woman driver pulled from a parking place.

A collision this morning at Thompson Ave. and Ravine St. damaged cars operated by Mrs. Hazel W. Neiser, 54, of 521 Wedgewood Ave. and Melvin C. Harris, 20, of 1054 Pennsylvania Ave., police said.

The left sides of both cars were damaged, police said.

morning the prahu was sighted again 14 miles off the coast.

Wassing was taken aboard a naval craft this morning at 9 a.m. and is in good health, the announcement said.

Wassing and Rockefeller were apparently in the swampy delta mouth of the river when their outboard engine fell off and the prahu was swept by the current into Flamingo Bay, part of the Arafura Sea.

Maps show that this swampy coastal area is about 100 miles wide, but some hamlets—such as Birufu and Agats—are situated there.

"I hope they find him before I get there, but I want to be there," the governor told newsmen before departing Idlewild Airport on a trip that was to touch at San Francisco and Tokyo.

125 Welcome Teacher

Visitor From Guatemala Feted At BPW's Affair

Miss Marta Julia Alarcon of Guatemala City, Guatemala, director of the Luzvale Girls' School, was honored with a reception by the East Liverpool Business and Professional Women's Club Sunday afternoon at the Mary Patterson Memorial. About 125 attended.

She is shown, flanked on the left by Mrs. Ruth Earl, Spanish teacher of the local high school, and Mrs. Robert Miller, a native of Portugal, who have been acting as interpreters during the Latin American woman's six-day visit.

She is one of four women educators from South American countries visiting the United States through the co-operative efforts of the National and Ohio Federation of BPW Clubs, Inc., and the office of cultural exchange of the State Department.

In her talk to the group, which Mrs. Earl interpreted, she thanked the club for its hospitality and the opportunity to observe educational, business and government factors here. She first was chosen as a representative by the Teachers Association, the only organization to which she belongs, and the minister of education in Guatemala.

The position of the 27-year old teacher corresponds roughly to a U. S. school principal, but she does not teach. An avocation is social welfare work and she has just finished special educational training in this field. She said the Luzvale School has approximately 450 girls enrolled and the age limit is 14.

There are 11 teachers in the building. The Guatemalan government aids in supporting the school. Although the students do not pay tuition, they must buy their text books. She said women, who only received the voting franchise in 1944, now occupy many importants posts in government, professions and business.

She has two brothers and two sisters and three of them also hold teaching positions. They all were educated at the University of Guatemala.

The receiving line was formed of Miss Frances Jones, club president; Mrs. Miller, Miss Alarcon, Mrs. Nessie Dunlop, chairman of the international relations committee in charge of the affair, and Mrs. Ethel Lynn Wambaugh, director of BPW District 8.

Miss Jones extended the welcome and presided for the formal part of the program. The honored guest received an orchid corsage from the club.

A charter was presented to the newly-organized Future Business Women's Club of the high school. Miss Margaret Ann Krovisky, business teacher who will be the faculty advisor, made the acceptance. Membership is determined on the basis of scholarship.

Mrs. Ethel Harvey is chairman of the career advancement committee, which arranged the project. She congratulated the group and presented identification cards.

The students are: Donna Nolan, Beverly Couch, Emma Ammon, Sharon Balser, Shirley Hood, Diana Smith, Margo Owen, Jon Pelly, Teresa Lowers, Betty Green, Irma Mercer, Cathy Mattern, Suzanne Jennings, Mary Todd, Miriam Hall, Barbara Fersch, Kaye Rollins, Pam Beatty, Carol Hupp and Eileen Plumm.

Donald Hancock, representing Council, brought greetings from city government.

Miss Alarcon was presented with gifts by each standing committee of the club. Mrs. Eileen Brown sang "The Collect." Mrs. Jan Dietz, music chairman, was accompanist.

Refreshments were served at a buffet table highlighted with arrangements of rust and yellow chrysanthemums, along with rust tapers in silver candelabra. Miss Helen Bibbee and Mrs. Mary McCullough presided at the silver tea services.

Aides were Miss Alberta Abrams, Miss Josephine Bonessi, Mrs. Hilda Edgar, Miss Della Ingles and Miss Hazel McShane. Mrs. Wilma Mason and Mrs. Helen Moore were in charge of decorations.

Miss Carolyn Kyle provided organ background music. Greeters at the door were Mrs. Emma Maloney, Mrs. Mary Ruth Bebout, Mrs. Gerry Bricker and Miss Joan Witt.

Over 200 youngsters and adults attended the "pinata party" held Saturday morning in honor of Miss Alarcon at Carnegie Public Library. A Spanish theme decorated the children's room. Miss Jones was assisted by Mrs. Hilda McEwen, children's librarian, who led the group in novelty songs.

Mrs. Earl spoke on Spanish customs and the traditional nine-day observance of Christmas. The story of the fiesta was told by Barbara Dallis and Ann Sixt, members of the high school Spanish Class, who were dressed in mantillas and aprons.

Andy Myers and Jim English, president and treasurer of the class, attired in typical Spanish garments, assisted in the breaking of the "pinata" made by Mrs. Roberta Ruthem. The large white paper mache affair, decorated with red, white and blue tinsel, was suspended from the ceiling.

Participating with the ceremony of the breaking of the pinata were Brian Davis, Karen Muffer, Raymond Galloway, Nancy Boch, Mike Boch, Ella Oliver and Beverly Meredith. Ted Jarvis, library page, assisted. The treats of candy and gum were distributed among the children.

Miss Alarcon was taken to a smorgasbord dinner and tour of a shopping plaza Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore and Mrs. Dunlop.

Sunday evening, she was honored with a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Maloney of Vine St. A full schedule of events is planned for her stay here, including a trip to see the performance of the Ringling Bros. Circus Tuesday at the new Civic Arena in Pittsburgh.

She is the house guest of Miss Jones, Mrs. Wambaugh and Mrs. Dunlop.

You can add glamor to canned pears when company's coming if you serve them with creme de menthe or an orange liqueur. Put the drained pears in individual glass serving dishes with just a little of their syrup, then pass the liqueur so guests can help themselves.

6 Given Lecture In Knife Fracas

No charges were filed against an Industry area man following investigation of an incident Friday night near Chester High School in which he allegedly threatened several youths with a hunting knife.

Emeric D. Scarsella Jr., 21, of Industry R. D. 1 and five other youths were reprimanded Saturday afternoon by Police Chief Harold Davis and Patrolman Clarence Lennens, the arresting officer.

The investigation disclosed that the Pennsylvania man, who is dating a Chester girl, apparently was provoked into the argument with the Chester youths during a high school play and later outside.

Scarsella left, then returned, and as the argument continued jumped from his car and threatened with a knife, police reported. Scarsella, who had been jailed, was released Saturday at 2 p. m.

The ten plagues of Egypt, just prior to the emancipation of the Hebrew slaves, as related in the Book of Exodus were waters turned to blood, frogs, lice, flies, murrain on the cattle, boils on human beings, hail, locusts, darkness, and the death of the first born in each Egyptian household.

Vanport Couple Hurt In Crash At Industry

A Vanport couple was admitted to Rochester General Hospital Sunday at 3 a. m. with injuries suffered when their car went out of control and struck a utility pole on Route 68 in Industry.

William Barnes, 27, the driver, is in "fairly good" condition with contusions of the forehead and a laceration of the right hand. Mrs. Sandra Barnes, 20, is in "fair" condition with contusions of the jaw and a possible chest injury.

Police Chief Guy St. Espirt said the accident occurred Sunday about 2:15 a. m. as the couple was traveling east. When the driver lost control, the car swerved to the left and hit the pole. The car was listed as a total loss.

PTA In Rogers Sees Scenes Of Holy Land

A contribution of $5 to the Christmas Seal campaign was authorized. Refreshments were served by a committee. Next meeting is Dec. 15 in the school.

Popular Education Hit For Moral Conditions

WASHINGTON (AP)— The nation's 228 Roman Catholic bishops have declared that moral principles are on the decline in the United States and that popular education "bears a measure of responsibility."

They urged rebuilding of a sound religious and moral foundation, saying the hour of greatest opportunity is striking now as the forces of freedom and tyranny gird for decision.

The prelates, in a 3,000-word statement issued Saturday at the close of their meeting, deplored what they called widespread evidence of moral decline.

Registration Deadline Set In Wheat Program

LISBON — Dec. 1 is the last day for wheat farmers to sign for the 1962 wheat stabilization program, according to L. E. Lora, Agriculture, Stabilization and Conservation office manager.

Virtually all farmers understand that their wheat acreage will be reduced by 10 per cent, he said. They also should know that they are eligible for a payment by diverting at least the 10 per cent to conservation use for one year, he added. Many farmers have not planted up to their permitted acreage, he said. That reduction, along with the 10 per cent cut, often adds up to a worthwhile payment, he said.

The intention to participate must be filed not later than Dec. 1 at the ASC office, Lora said.

MOORE'S FAVORITE OF ALL WASHERS!

Again we say this "Heavy Duty" model SPEED QUEEN washer is the most trouble free mechanism a woman has ever had occasion to use. No grunting or groaning, it's always on the job smiling.
This "heavy duty" model does its work quicker, cleaner and lasts longer. It requires no attention whatever. No oiling, no greasing, no adjusting, no nothing only wipe it off when through washing and you have a nice shiny new washer for years to come.
The price is $139.95 and your old washer. And only $5.00 down delivers.
Other Speed Queens for less and others for more but this particular "heavy duty" model is our favorite and the one we recommend to our friends as best buy for their dollar.

Old House Means Work

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There's no rest for the handyman who owns an old house.

It may have Colonial charm. It could be a house that Washington had slept in, or a house that has been owned by farmers. If the house is old, it needs upkeep, repairs or remodeling, or all three.

A man adept with crowbar and hammer would do well to find out what the little woman means when they are buying an old house and she says casually, "ooh, we can remodel it as we go along, dear." Those words will echo in his ears for a long time to come, especially during winter when the family hibernates indoors.

It's the little beginning with hammer and chisel that can lead to mallet and axe. A man who digs out a corner cupboard at his wife's suggestion could find that she visualizes a fireplace in that area. Women can dream bigger than Blanding.

A WIFE who urges the purchase of a house with the idea of making a few changes should remember that major structural changes require a plan, and a few more gadgets than she'll find in the tool belt she gave her husband for Christmas. A big project requires:

An expert do-it-yourself type or an architect and carpenter.

Needs and desires that are well defined.

A good-size budget (even if you do it yourself).

Before you heckle that man into making a swimming pool out of the bird bath, consider doing first things first.

Plumbing and wiring are main necessities. Adequate wiring is required if you have an assortment of large and small appliances. And old rusty pipes get older and rustier. If you need new plumbing or wiring it will pay dividends whether you stay in the house a long while or sell it.

IF YOU ARE trying to maintain the charm of an old Colonial house, don't make the kitchen so modern that it pales the rest of the house. The effect is like stepping from one century into another.

You can have modern appliances without getting the "neither fish nor fowl" feeling. Take advantage of walls, floorings, counter tops and cupboards that blend in with the old atmosphere you are trying to maintain, offering modern utility as well. A fan may be necessary for ventilation, and a good light is an absolute necessity.

If the house is sturdily built with a good roof, forget about its gingerbread lines and curlicues as you invest your funds in renewing the indoors. Revive old floors by scraping and waxing, replaster walls, repair wainscoting, renew fireplaces to former beauty, and you'll begin to appreciate your investment.

Postpone a project that can't be done properly by the home handyman or hired help within the budget you've set. Don't try to spread a little money over a large area.

You can consider an old house a bargain, providing you are willing to make needed repairs and renovations.

But if you skip over obvious space wasters such as a seldom-used back stairway which could be removed to provide a new lavatory or extra feet to a small kitchen, you aren't getting proper mileage out of your house plan funds. The removal of that flight of stairs could mean an extra room upstairs, a larger bedroom or a new dressing room.

WHEN ADDING modern innovations to an old structure, try to maintain its aged appearance. A new storage closet should have strong L-shaped or H-shaped hinges and latches to preserve the feeling of antiquity.

Many old houses require insulation. Before the man of the house is urged to do this project, see if you can't have the stuff blown in from outside. The less you must do with walls in an old house, the better. The studs rarely run 16 inches and chances are nobody bothered with a plumb and level.

Old country houses often were built at work parties while the workers took breathers and relaxed with hard cider, and the only thing on the level was the foundation.

Any Shortage Of Ore Stock Held Unlikely

CLEVELAND (AP) — With the Great Lakes shipping season nearing an end, Steel Magazine said today there will be no winter shortage of iron ore stocks.

The national weekly publication predicted stocks will total about 81.5 million tons on Dec. 1, equal to eight months' supply at the current rate of consumption.

It estimated ore stocks at the start of the lake navigation next year will exceed 54 million tons, down from the 64.7 million in stock last April 1, but higher than 1960's 41.8 million. Hedge-buying of steel against a possible mid-year strike may spur ingot production and ore consumption early next year, Steel said.

Steel said automakers and smaller users in almost all steel-consuming industries are stepping up orders. Sales now are 5 per cent ahead of October's despite seasonal downtrends in demand for construction steel, pipe and tin plate, the magazine said.

Even though mills are experiencing a pickup in orders, Steel said, only moderate improvement in weekly output is expected before yearend. Ingot production this week will be about the same as the 2,044,000 tons Steel estimated were poured last week.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. has reported a good upturn in flat rolled steel orders, and has speeded up output.

Steel's composite on No. 1 heavy melting grade scrap held at $33 a gross ton last week, compared with a 20-month high of $39.83 at the end of September.

Hospital Lab Due Name Of Young Leukemia Victim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A proposed laboratory at Children's Hospital is to be named for Mike Rollins.

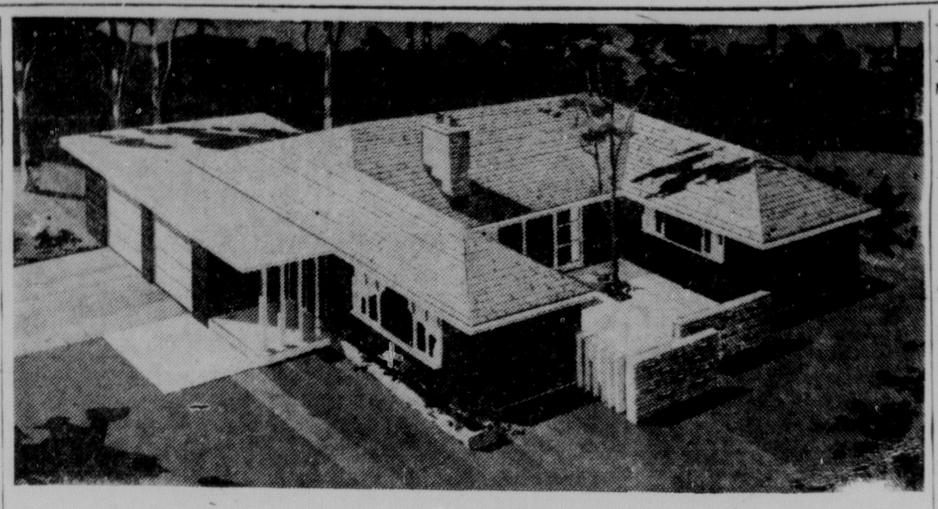

Mike is the young boy from Marion who died of leukemia in 1959 after attracting nationwide attention for his dream of becoming a published author.

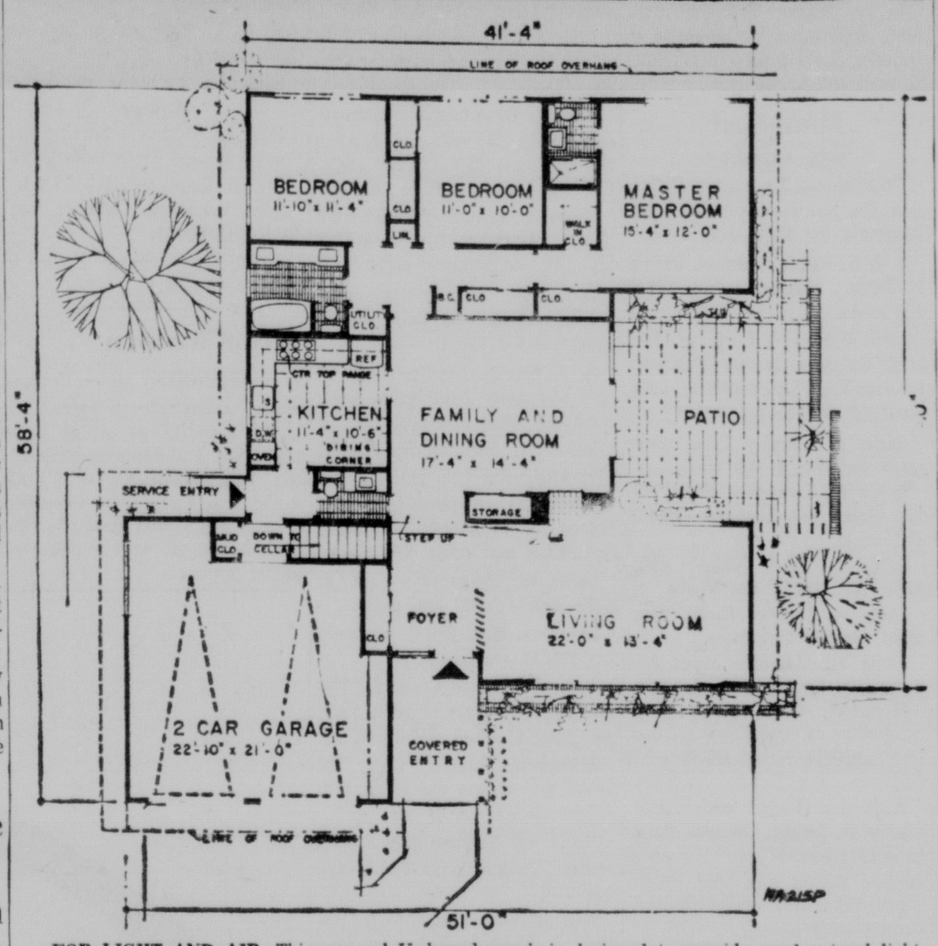

The lab will be housed in a third floor addition to the hospital's recently completed research building. A $143,000 grant just announced by the U.S. Public Health Service will be used to finance the addition.

Research into leukemia and other childhood cancers will be done in the laboratory.

FOR LIGHT AND AIR. This unusual U-shaped ranch is designed to provide good natural light and ventilation and a maximum of outdoor living. Some hints for the home owner:

An easily made and inexpensive household item that the lady of the house will really appreciate can be made by the home handyman in an evening or two.

It's a lightweight cleaning stool on casters, made from a panel of sanded playwood. By putting in compartments on both sides for storage of often-used cleaning supplies, the portable unit will come in handy either for sitting-down cleaning chores or as a knee protector.

It can serve both purposes merely by placing a latex foam rubber pad on the seat of the stool. The rubber should be an inch and one - half thick and be covered with a vinyl fabric. For floor-cleaning tasks, the pad is slipped off the stool and used on the floor.

When putting fiberboard tiles on a ceiling, it usually is necessary to install furring strips to which the tiles can be stapled or nailed.

Be sure to place the furring strips 12 inches apart on center; that is, 12 inches from the center of one strip to the center of the next. In that way, you can use 12 by 12 tiles which can be fitted together in the center of each strip.

House gutters, whether of metal or wood, will last longer if given an asphalt - asbestos protective coating on the inside and a coat of paint on the outside.

The gutters should be checked at least once a year to determine whether the pitch is correct for proper drainage, whether the fastenings are secure and to clear out all leaves, soot and other debris. If a downspout is clogged, it can be cleared with a weight attached to a rope or piece of wire.

When there appears to be a rumble in a pipe while a water faucet is turned on, the chances are that the washer is loose and needs replacing. But when a loud noise occurs only when the faucet is shut off, especially when it is shut off abruptly, it usually is a case of water hammer.

This means that the air chambers at the fixtures have been clogged with water. Open a faucet at the lowest point in the piping system. All other faucets and valves should be opened slightly. The water closets should be shut off and not flushed during this experiment.

This draining of the piping system will correct the condition most of the time. In extreme cases, it is necessary to install special shock absorbers at strategic points in the system, which require professional attention.

The application of petroleum jelly inside new locks will prevent them from rusting and make it easier to open the lock with one turn of the key.

Smaller-Type Homes To Be Pushed In '62

WASHINGTON — Plans to build an increased number of smaller homes in 1962 and the mid-1960s are being made by builders throughout the country, according to the Home Manufacturers Association.

This does not mean home buyers will have difficulty finding top quality houses in middle and upper price brackets. These also will be built in abundance. It merely means that persons with smaller families and lower incomes will have a wider selection, the association said.

The move is caused to a large extent by the increased number of households headed by older and younger men without children. Business Week Managing Editor Kenneth Kramer described the trend recently when he spoke at the Home Manufacturers Association's 18th annual convention.

"The number of households headed by men in their late teens and early 20s will increase by more than half a million in the next five years. Households headed by people of 55 and older will increase by nearly two million in the same time. This probably means a shift toward smaller and lower cost housing units that will appeal to the very young and the old."

At least 20 countries have borrowed the tune of "God Save the Queen" for their national anthems.

Motor Trail Planned

Scenic Development Set For Tomlinson Run Park

Area residents who search for new motor routes for their Sunday afternoon excursions in the summer months might try Tomlinson Run State Park next year.

N. T. Holbrook, park superintendent, said a portion of funds anticipated in his new budget will be earmarked for "scienic development" of the wooded Hancock County recreational area.

Holbrook plans to open an old road in the park constructed years ago by the Civilian Conservation Corps.

It's now only a winding, tree-lined path, but will be converted to a scenic motor trail for park visitors, if money is available, he said.

Holbrook has asked the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources for a $90,000 budget next year. Sen. William Tempos (D) of Weirton is "plugging" for its approval, Holbrook said.

If approved, the funds would also be used for resurfacing of park roads, additional recreational facilities and clearing of woods for more tenting sites.

A new $6,000 combination lodge and office building, and a new $21,000 concession stand were constructed recently with last year's budget funds.

Holbrook and 49 officials of the West Virginia Division of State Parks toured Tomlinson Run Park last week prior to a four-day business meeting in Wheeling.

"It was the first visit to Tomlinson Run for 38 of the officials, and they were quite impressed," Holbrook said.

"They were most impressed with our outdoor swimming pool, and the large layout of the park's picnic area," he added.

The swimming pool adjacent to Route 2 near Pughtown is the largest of any in the state's 22 parks. Tomlinson also has the only group camping facilities.

The delegation which visited the park included Thomas Moore of the National Parks Service, Department of the Interior, County Commissioners Lyle Virden and James Finley, Sen. Tompos, and Norman Ferrari, head of the county's Civil Defense Corps.

George Breiding, naturalist of Oglebay Park in Wheeling, was one of two advisory commissioners to the natural resources branch that were present.

2 Women Killed, Police Hold Men

CLEVELAND (AP) — One woman was stabbed to death by her husband and another was shot to death by her ex-husband in separate East Side incidents over the weekend, police reported.

In both cases the men inflicted wounds on themselves.

Otto Strnad, 49, admitted killing his ex-wife and also fired three into his chest with a .22-caliber revolver Sunday, police said. Strnad was reported in fair condition in a hospital.

Mrs. Strnad, 48, was hit with one bullet while in her kitchen. After shooting himself, Strnad drove 10 miles to the home of a brother, Frank, in Solon, detectives said.

Mrs. Lawrence Franklin, 27, was stabbed to death Saturday night. Police said her husband, 30, admitted stabbing her during an argument.

Franklin, an unemployed laborer, stabbed himself in the chest and was taken to a hospital.

No charges have been filed.

Snow, Rains Sweep U.S.

By The Associated Press

It was cold, wet and cloudy in the major part of the nation today, with a mixture of rain, sleet and snow from the Pacific Coast to the eastern seaboard.

However, no severe storms were reported and precipitation in most areas was light.

Rain and snow hit the Central Pacific Coast. More light snow fell across sections of the Midwest and spread into the Southern Great Lakes. Heavier snow was reported in the Ohio Valley and eastward into the Central Appalachians.

Rain splattered areas east of the Appalachians, and during the night light rain fell in the Middle and South Atlantic Coast states.

Temperatures edged toward zero in sections of the Rockies and below freezing marks were reported in most of the Plateau region eastward through the Northern and Central Plains, the middle and upper Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes, parts of the Ohio Valley and the North Atlantic Coast. Readings were in the 30s and 40s in most other areas for extreme southern sections.

A little warmer weather was indicated in the Southern Plains, the middle Mississippi Valley and north and eastward into the Great Lakes and the lower Ohio Valley. Colder air appeared headed into Western Nevada and Southern California.

Dayton Day Wins Wayne Post With Lucky Coin Toss

A tie-breaking coin toss Thursday night in the County Election Board's office gave a Wayne Township trustee's post to Dayton Day over Earl Glendenning.

Following state law, the Election Board decided the contest "by lot" after each of the candidates received 60 votes in the Nov. 7 general election. Both were notified of the impending action, but only Glendenning appeared.

As a silver dollar was tossed in the air, Glendenning was asked to choose "heads" or "tails." He chose "heads."

The coin struck the floor and rolled, finally flipping up "tails" and giving the post to Day.

Donald Burton Jr. won the other Wayne Township post with 95 votes. Trailing behind Glendenning and Day were Joseph A. Rowley with 50 and Walter Watson with 51.

AMVETS Take Stand

SALEM, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of AMVETS has indicated it is opposed to any tampering with present state law on communism study in public schools. The AMVETS executive committee adopted a resolution Sunday to support the law requiring teaching of Americanism subjects before any attempt is made to tell the students what communism is all about.

Lucy Weds Gary In Simple Rites, Sets Honeymoon

NEW YORK (AP) — Married in a simple church ceremony with a roaring crowd in the cold street outside, flame-tressed Lucille Ball is keeping up her television schedule here while comedian Gary Morton starts a night club engagement in Palm Springs, Calif.

There'll be a January honeymoon in Acapulco, Mex., for the couple whose romance started on a blind date in a pizza palace here.

After that, home will be a big house in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Lucy, divorced wife of Desi Arnaz, and Morton, son of a Bronx truckman, were married Sunday at the Marble Collegiate church by the Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

A crowd of 1,500 jammed the sidewalks near the 29th Street side entrance of the church. Ten policemen kept the crowd in check.

Among the first out of the church and into waiting cars were the two children of Lucy's 20-year marriage to Arnaz—Lucie, 10, and Desi, 8. The youngsters waved in greeting to the crowd.

Lucy gave her age as 50 when the marriage license was obtained. Morton, whose marriage to Jacqueline Inmoor was annulled in 1957, gave his age as 44.

Snow, Rains Sweep U.S.

By The Associated Press

It was cold, wet and cloudy in the major part of the nation today, with a mixture of rain, sleet and snow from the Pacific Coast to the eastern seaboard.

However, no severe storms were reported and precipitation in most areas was light.

Rain and snow hit the Central Pacific Coast. More light snow fell across sections of the Midwest and spread into the Southern Great Lakes. Heavier snow was reported in the Ohio Valley and eastward into the Central Appalachians.

Rain splattered areas east of the Appalachians, and during the night light rain fell in the Middle and South Atlantic Coast states.

Temperatures edged toward zero in sections of the Rockies and below freezing marks were reported in most of the Plateau region eastward through the Northern and Central Plains, the middle and upper Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes, parts of the Ohio Valley and the North Atlantic Coast. Readings were in the 30s and 40s in most other areas for extreme southern sections.

A little warmer weather was indicated in the Southern Plains, the middle Mississippi Valley and north and eastward into the Great Lakes and the lower Ohio Valley. Colder air appeared headed into Western Nevada and Southern California.

Dayton Day Wins Wayne Post With Lucky Coin Toss

A tie-breaking coin toss Thursday night in the County Election Board's office gave a Wayne Township trustee's post to Dayton Day over Earl Glendenning.

Following state law, the Election Board decided the contest "by lot" after each of the candidates received 60 votes in the Nov. 7 general election. Both were notified of the impending action, but only Glendenning appeared.

As a silver dollar was tossed in the air, Glendenning was asked to choose "heads" or "tails." He chose "heads."

The coin struck the floor and rolled, finally flipping up "tails" and giving the post to Day.

Donald Burton Jr. won the other Wayne Township post with 95 votes. Trailing behind Glendenning and Day were Joseph A. Rowley with 50 and Walter Watson with 51.

Lucy Weds Gary In Simple Rites, Sets Honeymoon

NEW YORK (AP) — Married in a simple church ceremony with a roaring crowd in the cold street outside, flame-tressed Lucille Ball is keeping up her television schedule here while comedian Gary Morton starts a night club engagement in Palm Springs, Calif.

There'll be a January honeymoon in Acapulco, Mex., for the couple whose romance started on a blind date in a pizza palace here.

After that, home will be a big house in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Lucy, divorced wife of Desi Arnaz, and Morton, son of a Bronx truckman, were married Sunday at the Marble Collegiate church by the Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

A crowd of 1,500 jammed the sidewalks near the 29th Street side entrance of the church. Ten policemen kept the crowd in check.

Among the first out of the church and into waiting cars were the two children of Lucy's 20-year marriage to Arnaz—Lucie, 10, and Desi, 8. The youngsters waved in greeting to the crowd.

Lucy gave her age as 50 when the marriage license was obtained. Morton, whose marriage to Jacqueline Inmoor was annulled in 1957, gave his age as 44.

Farm Agent Gives Advice For Picking Holiday Bird

Listing tips to consumers to follow when choosing a Thanksgiving turkey, Richard Skinner, market information agent with the Agriculture Extension Service in Canfield, pointed out today that one rule of thumb holds good — the larger the bird, the more reasonable the price.

There is more edible meat per pound on the larger bird, Skinner said. It is practical to ask the grocer to split a large turkey down the middle so half can be used for Thanksgiving and the other half can be frozen for Christmas use, he said.

When buying turkey let your eyes be your guide to quality. Whether buying large or small birds, select clean dressed, plump birds with: (1) wide, straight breasts, (2) moist, pliable, waxy skin (3) thick, meated thighs and (4) fat well distributed under the skin.

Before buying your bird determine the number of servings you will need. Here is a rule of thumb to follow. If the turkey weighs 12 pounds or more, allow a half to three quarter pounds per serving. If the turkey weighs less than 12 pounds, allow three quarters to one pound per serving. Keep in mind that some people require about three servings on Thanksgiving.

Prices will be lower than last year's 39-to 45-cent range in the large supermarket. The large birds will be 33 cents or below in most cases. It will not be impossible to serve turkey with six drumsticks, as packages of pieces will probably be available in many markets.

It is very important that you do not stuff the turkey until time to roast. Stuffing a turkey and refrigerating or freezing it at home is not recommended. It can only be done successfully by quick - freezing methods. Promptly after the meal, separate the stuffing from the bird, wrap and cover it well, and refrigerate.

If you have a frozen bird, it is recommended that you follow package directions or leave the bird in the original wrap; place on shelf in refrigerator and allow two to four days for defrosting The meat will be more tender than if thawed rapidly or at room temperature. The secret behind any frozen meat is quick freezing and slow defrosting.

Cranberries, another traditional holiday food, will be in good supply this year. While the crop is slightly below last year, it still is above average. When buying fresh cranberries, select those that are plump and dry to insure freshness and those that are firm with a high luster to insure ripeness. Avoid berries that are soft and shriveled or have a dull appearance, as they have passed their prime.

Apples, many varieties, continue to offer much value. There is a variety for almost every taste —Red Delicious and Golden Delicious for sweet varieties, McIntosh, Cortland, and Jonathan for all purpose use.

Grapefruit quality is improving. prices are already low and pink and red kinds seem especially abundant at this time.

Orange prices too are headed down. You can look forward to tangerines by Thanksgiving, much ahead of last year, and they'll be plentiful by Christmas.

Most grape prices are sharply higher, but they will be available all during the holiday season. Red Emperors will be the seasonal variety.

Canned fruits to watch for and consider for your shopping list are peaches and canned cherry products. Both are in abundant supply.

Eye Damage from Arc Welding

Q. As a time clerk I am sometimes required to enter a shop where electric arc welding is performed. Would this injure my eyes?

A. It has been stated that for all practical purposes, workers (other than operators of arc welding equipment) do not need eye protection if they are 50 feet or more away from the arc light. Other investigators regard 200 feet as the minimal distance for unprotected exposure of bystanders and other workers.

M-to-M Revival

Q. Who developed the new mouth-to-mouth method of resuscitation, the Red Cross?

A. No. Mouth-to-mouth breathing as a means of reviving unconscious persons was probably practiced by prehistoric man. The first medical record of its use was in 1743. (The International Red Cross was chartered in 1863). By the way, mouth-to-mouth breathing was used on Mr. Lincoln as he lay mortally wounded on the floor of Box 7 and 8 in Ford's Theatre. This was at approximately 10:15 on that tragic Friday evening, April 14, 1865. The doctor, a 23-year-old Army Medical Officer, related the event in this manner (paraphrased): "I leaned forcibly forward directly over his (the President's) body, face to face, and several times drew in a long breath, then forcibly breathed directly into his mouth and nostrils, which expanded his lungs and improved his respirations. . . . After a short while I saw that the President could continue independent breathing and that instant death would not occur."

Tongue Sucking

Q. What can be done for a tongue sucking child? She is 20 months old.

A. Frankly, we don't know. There are various theories to explain the reason for thumb sucking and tongue sucking and just as many suggestions about what to do to stop these practices. We know it sounds trite, but maybe the child will outgrow it.

Apples, many varieties, continue to offer much value. There is a variety for almost every taste —Red Delicious and Golden Delicious for sweet varieties, McIntosh, Cortland, and Jonathan for all purpose use.

Grapefruit quality is improving, prices are already low and pink and red kinds seem especially abundant at this time.

Orange prices too are headed down. You can look forward to tangerines by Thanksgiving, much ahead of last year, and they'll be plentiful by Christmas.

Most grape prices are sharply higher, but they will be available all during the holiday season. Red Emperors will be the seasonal variety.

Canned fruits to watch for and consider for your shopping list are peaches and canned cherry products. Both are in abundant supply.

Eye Damage from Arc Welding

Q. As a time clerk I am sometimes required to enter a shop where electric arc welding is performed. Would this injure my eyes?

A. It has been stated that for all practical purposes, workers (other than operators of arc welding equipment) do not need eye protection if they are 50 feet or more away from the arc light. Other investigators regard 200 feet as the minimal distance for unprotected exposure of bystanders and other workers.

M-to-M Revival

Q. Who developed the new mouth-to-mouth method of resuscitation, the Red Cross?

A. No. Mouth-to-mouth breathing as a means of reviving unconscious persons was probably practiced by prehistoric man. The first medical record of its use was in 1743. (The International Red Cross was chartered in 1863). By the way, mouth-to-mouth breathing was used on Mr. Lincoln as he lay mortally wounded on the floor of Box 7 and 8 in Ford's Theatre. This was at approximately 10:15 on that tragic Friday evening, April 14, 1865. The doctor, a 23-year-old Army Medical Officer, related the event in this manner (paraphrased): "I leaned forcibly forward directly over his (the President's) body, face to face, and several times drew in a long breath, then forcibly breathed directly into his mouth and nostrils, which expanded his lungs and improved his respirations. . . . After a short while I saw that the President could continue independent breathing and that instant death would not occur."

Tongue Sucking

Q. What can be done for a tongue sucking child? She is 20 months old.

A. Frankly, we don't know. There are various theories to explain the reason for thumb sucking and tongue sucking and just as many suggestions about what to do to stop these practices. We know it sounds trite, but maybe the child will outgrow it.

Tittle Passes Giants Into First

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Y. A. Tittle, New York's bald bomber, has passed the Giants into first place in the National Football League's Eastern Conference donnybrook, but he needed a record-breaking performance by Cleveland's Jimmy Brown to complete the job.

While Tittle was leading the Giants to a 42-21 thumping of Pittsburgh with a three-TD performance, Brown rushed for a one-game record of 242 yards and scored four touchdowns as the Browns blitzed Philadelphia 45-24 Sunday and knocked the Eagles out of a tie for the top spot.

Brown, league ground gaining champion all four years he's been in the NFL, eclipsed his own mark of 237 yards set in a game in 1957 by averaging over seven yards a carry, and added 52 yards by catching three passes.

The loss was Philadelphia's second in succession—the Giants administered a 38-21 beating last week—and dropped the defending champions into a second-place tie with the Browns, one game back of the Giants. New York is 8-2, Cleveland and Philadelphia 7-3.

The Green Bay Packers, playing for the first time without scoring king Paul Hornung, maintained their 1½ game edge in the Western Conference race by whipping Los Angeles 35-17 for an 8-2 record with four games to play.

The Detroit Lions, runners-up in the West at 6-3-1, rolled to a 37-10 victory over Minnesota while San Francisco put a damper on Chicago's hopes with a 41-31 triumph over the Bears. Baltimore blanked St. Louis 16-0 and Washington ended its losing streak by tying Dallas 28-28.

Tittle, veteran of 14 pro campaigns, completed 19 of 28 passes for 314 yards and made it 15 TD pitches for the season with a nine-yard flip to Joe Walton, a 38-yarder to Alex Webster and a 20-yarder to Kyle Rote. Rote also pulled in a 10-yard touchdown toss from halfback Bob Gaiters while Webster picked up another score on a 32-yard jaunt.

The Giants, winning their eighth in nine games, went ahead to stay on Gaiters' three-yard burst in the second period after a 58-yard Tittle to Rote pass had set it up. Buddy Dial scored twice for the Steelers (4-6) on a 15-yard pass from Rudy Bukich and a three-yarder from Bobby Layne, back in action after five weeks.

Brown scored his TDs on runs of 2, 4, 1 and 8 yards while Bobby Mitchell, on a weekend pass from the Army, scored the other touchdowns on a 28-yard pass from Milt Plum and a 91-yard kickoff return. Lou Groza added a field goal to the Browns' output and with six conversions brought his NFL career point total to 813, 12 short of the record held by Green Bay's Don Hutson.

Sonny Jurgensen connected with Tommy McDonald on an eight-yarder TD toss and wound up the scoring with a 39-yard toss to Tim Brown.

Trailing 7-0, the Packers exploded for 28 points against the Rams (3-7) in the second quarter when Bart Starr unlimbered his pitching arm. Jim Taylor tied it on a one-yard plunge, then Starr hit Max McGee with 20 and 13-yard TD tosses and sent a 12-yarder to Boyd Dowler. Jon Arnett had sent Los Angeles into the early lead on a 14-yard run.

Earl Morrall took over for starting quarterback Jim Ninowski with the Vikings (2-8) leading 10-0 and led the Lions from behind with a pair of payoff passes to Terry Barr and a 37-yarder to Gail Cogdill. Jerry Reichow scored the Minnesota TD on a 23-yard pitch from Fran Tarkenton.

John Brodie, passing from a straight T as the 49ers (5-4-1) virtually abandoned the shotgun offense, hit Monte Stickles with a 44-yard touchdown pass and threw 71 and 46-yarders to rookie Aaron Thomas to beat the Bears (5-5).

Billy Wade threw three TD passes for the Bears, who lost their third in a row.

Steve Myhra kicked three field goals for the Colts (5-5) after the Johnny Unitas to Lenny Moore combination had connected for a 17-yard scoring pass and the only touchdown against the Cards (4-6), who were unable to penetrate beyond the Baltimore 42.

Dick Bielski took a three-yard strike from Eddie LeBaron to end an 82-yard march with two minutes left that gave the Cowboys (4-5-1 a tie with the Redskins. It was Washington's 20th straight game without a win, but snapped a 17-game losing streak for an 0-9-1 record.

AFL Jumping Gun On Secret Draft

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Indications were mighty strong today that the American Football League has pulled a similar stunt to 1960—jumped the gun on the draft. Only this time it violates an agreement with the American Football Coaches Association.

There could be a lot of trouble, especially from the NCAA, but apparently nothing can be done about it except talk.

Everybody apparently knew about it except Commissioner Joe Foss and his AFL office here—and Foss now has been apprised and has said he'll check into it.

Three newspapers reported that a secret draft had been held and such stars as Ernie Davis of Syracuse, Bob Ferguson of Ohio State, Lance Alworth of Arkansas, Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State and Jim Saxton of Texas were among the selectees.

Some anonymous club officials were quoted that the draft had been held and one of them, a fellow with San Diego, told Jerry Magee of the San Diego Union, "The commissioner knew nothing about this. It was run by the owners."

The club owners are supposed to have held six rounds of the draft by telephone several weeks before Commissioner Foss set the official date of the draft for Dec. 2—the day of final college games.

Foss, in announcing the draft, said he was complying with an NCAA request not to hold the player selection until the close of the college season.

The Dallas News first broke the secret draft. Then the Union chimed in and next came the Houston Post to confirm it.

Last year the AFL held part of its draft a month earlier than the National Football League.

The Dallas News said it got first wind of the secret draft from a Southwest Conference coach, who said he figured there had been one because the pros kept calling.

Foss said he didn't believe it had been done but he did admit that the AFL owners had been contacting college players they would like to draft, "just like the National Football League has been doing. But that doesn't mean we've held a draft or tried to sign anybody."

3 Other Gridders Honored

Myers, Hoppel Share In MVP Award At Beaver Local Football Banquet

Five Beaver Local gridders — including most valuable players Carl Hoppel and Dave Myers — were honored when some 200 attended the annual football banquet Saturday night at the Beaver Local elementary building.

The 1961 squad coached by Jack O'Rourke was praised for its record of 7-1-2, the best in the school's young history.

Hoppel, the leading scorer in the district and top ground gainer for the Beavers, shared the most valuable player award with Myers, an outstanding guard and linebacker. Both are top candidates for all-state honors.

In addition to the MVP award, Hoppel was voted the best offensive back, while Myers reaped two other honors for being the top offensive and defensive lineman.

Also sharing the spotlight was guard Dave Stacey, utility back John Broadbent and Floyd Saltsman, a standout on the reserve squad.

Stacey, a senior, was voted the most improved player on the varsity squad while Broadbent was named the best defensive back. Broadbent turned in an outstanding job this past season, especially in the pass interception department.

Saltsman was voted the most improved player on the Beaver Local reserve squad.

The trophy awards were presented by Bruce Costanzo, athletic director, and Foyn Wright, president of the Beaver Local Boosters Club.

Robert Bronson, athletic director of Ashland College, was the guest speaker and related humorous experiences as a high school and college coach.

In the high school ranks, Bronson was Class A coach of the year in 1951 and won the same honor in the AA ranks in 1953 when he led Portsmouth High School to an undefeated season.

Moving to Ashland in 1954, he went on to compile a record of 25 straight victories over a period of three years and won two Mid-Ohio League championships. He became athletic director in 1958.

Seventeen varsity awards and 20 reserve letters were presented by the Beaver Local coaching staff, which consisted of O'Rourke, Tom McCall, Flody Suarez and Orlando Giovanatto.

Varsity and reserve cheerleaders were introduced by Mrs. Patricia Todd, adviser.

Brief remarks were given by Dr. George Van Horne, executive head of Beaver Local schools. The invocation was given by the Rev. Joseph Warner of the Saint Agatha Mission of West Point.

By The Associated Press

It took 'em three games to get going, but now the Kansas City Steers seem to have established themselves as the club to beat in the American Basketball League's Western Division.

Coached by Jack McMahon, former ace of the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association, the Steers are doing it with a balanced attack led by former Kansas tar Bill Bridges.

Bridges, top rebounder in the Big Eight conference last season, had 18 points Sunday. Six other Kansas City players also hit double figures. Hal Lear led Los Angeles with 24.

Pittsburgh, leading the Eastern Division with a 7-3 record, defeated San Francisco 101-85 in the other league game played Sunday night. Phil Rollins and George Patterson each hit 24 points and Connie Hawkins scored 14 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. John Berberich had 29 points and 13 rebounds for San Francisco, which lost its fifth in a row.

The loss was Philadelphia's second in succession—the Giants administered a 38-21 beating last week—and dropped the defending champions into a second-place tie with the Browns, one game back of the Giants. New York is 8-2, Cleveland and Philadelphia 7-3.

The Green Bay Packers, playing for the first time without scoring king Paul Hornung, maintained their 1½ game edge in the Western Conference race by whipping Los Angeles 35-17 for an 8-2 record with four games to play.

The Detroit Lions, runners-up in the West at 6-3-1, rolled to a 37-10 victory over Minnesota while San Francisco put a damper on Chicago's hopes with a 41-31 triumph over the Bears. Baltimore blanked St. Louis 16-0 and Washington ended its losing streak by tying Dallas 28-28.

Tittle, veteran of 14 pro campaigns, completed 19 of 28 passes for 314 yards and made it 15 TD pitches for the season with a nine-yard flip to Joe Walton, a 38-yarder to Alex Webster and a 20-yarder to Kyle Rote. Rote also pulled in a 10-yard touchdown toss from halfback Bob Gaiters while Webster picked up another score on a 32-yard jaunt.

The Giants, winning their eighth in nine games, went ahead to stay on Gaiters' three-yard burst in the second period after a 58-yard Tittle to Rote pass had set it up. Buddy Dial scored twice for the Steelers (4-6) on a 15-yard pass from Rudy Bukich and a three-yarder from Bobby Layne, back in action after five weeks.

Brown scored his TDs on runs of 2, 4, 1 and 8 yards while Bobby Mitchell, on a weekend pass from the Army, scored the other touchdowns on a 28-yard pass from Milt Plum and a 91-yard kickoff return. Lou Groza added a field goal to the Browns' output and with six conversions brought his NFL career point total to 813, 12 short of the record held by Green Bay's Don Hutson.

Sonny Jurgensen connected with Tommy McDonald on an eight-yarder TD toss and wound up the scoring with a 39-yard toss to Tim Brown.

Trailing 7-0, the Packers exploded for 28 points against the Rams (3-7) in the second quarter when Bart Starr unlimbered his pitching arm. Jim Taylor tied it on a one-yard plunge, then Starr hit Max McGee with 20 and 13-yard TD tosses and sent a 12-yarder to Boyd Dowler. Jon Arnett had sent Los Angeles into the early lead on a 14-yard run.

Earl Morrall took over for starting quarterback Jim Ninowski with the Vikings (2-8) leading 10-0 and led the Lions from behind with a pair of payoff passes to Terry Barr and a 37-yarder to Gail Cogdill. Jerry Reichow scored the Minnesota TD on a 23-yard pitch from Fran Tarkenton.

John Brodie, passing from a straight T as the 49ers (5-4-1) virtually abandoned the shotgun offense, hit Monte Stickles with a 44-yard touchdown pass and threw 71 and 46-yarders to rookie Aaron Thomas to beat the Bears (5-5).

Billy Wade threw three TD passes for the Bears, who lost their third in a row.

Steve Myhra kicked three field goals for the Colts (5-5) after the Johnny Unitas to Lenny Moore combination had connected for a 17-yard scoring pass and the only touchdown against the Cards (4-6), who were unable to penetrate beyond the Baltimore 42.

Dick Bielski took a three-yard strike from Eddie LeBaron to end an 82-yard march with two minutes left that gave the Cowboys (4-5-1 a tie with the Redskins. It was Washington's 20th straight game without a win, but snapped a 17-game losing streak for an 0-9-1 record.

Myers, Hoppel Share In MVP Award At Beaver Local Football Banquet

Five Beaver Local gridders — including most valuable players Carl Hoppel and Dave Myers — were honored when some 200 attended the annual football banquet Saturday night at the Beaver Local elementary building.

The 1961 squad coached by Jack O'Rourke was praised for its record of 7-1-2, the best in the school's young history.

Hoppel, the leading scorer in the district and top ground gainer for the Beavers, shared the most valuable player award with Myers, an outstanding guard and linebacker. Both are top candidates for all-state honors.

In addition to the MVP award, Hoppel was voted the best offensive back, while Myers reaped two other honors for being the top offensive and defensive lineman.

Also sharing the spotlight was guard Dave Stacey, utility back John Broadbent and Floyd Saltsman, a standout on the reserve squad.

Stacey, a senior, was voted the most improved player on the varsity squad while Broadbent was named the best defensive back. Broadbent turned in an outstanding job this past season, especially in the pass interception department.

Saltsman was voted the most improved player on the Beaver Local reserve squad.

The trophy awards were presented by Bruce Costanzo, athletic director, and Foyn Wright, president of the Beaver Local Boosters Club.

Robert Bronson, athletic director of Ashland College, was the guest speaker and related humorous experiences as a high school and college coach.

In the high school ranks, Bronson was Class A coach of the year in 1951 and won the same honor in the AA ranks in 1953 when he led Portsmouth High School to an undefeated season.

Moving to Ashland in 1954, he went on to compile a record of 25 straight victories over a period of three years and won two Mid-Ohio League championships. He became athletic director in 1958.

Seventeen varsity awards and 20 reserve letters were presented by the Beaver Local coaching staff, which consisted of O'Rourke, Tom McCall, Flody Suarez and Orlando Giovanatto.

Varsity and reserve cheerleaders were introduced by Mrs. Patricia Todd, adviser.

Brief remarks were given by Dr. George Van Horne, executive head of Beaver Local schools. The invocation was given by the Rev. Joseph Warner of the Saint Agatha Mission of West Point.

AFL Jumping Gun On Secret Draft

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Indications were mighty strong today that the American Football League has pulled a similar stunt to 1960—jumped the gun on the draft. Only this time it violates an agreement with the American Football Coaches Association.

There could be a lot of trouble, especially from the NCAA, but apparently nothing can be done about it except talk.

Everybody apparently knew about it except Commissioner Joe Foss and his AFL office here—and Foss now has been apprised and has said he'll check into it.

Three newspapers reported that a secret draft had been held and such stars as Ernie Davis of Syracuse, Bob Ferguson of Ohio State, Lance Alworth of Arkansas, Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State and Jim Saxton of Texas were among the selectees.

Some anonymous club officials were quoted that the draft had been held and one of them, a fellow with San Diego, told Jerry Magee of the San Diego Union, "The commissioner knew nothing about this. It was run by the owners."

The club owners are supposed to have held six rounds of the draft by telephone several weeks before Commissioner Foss set the official date of the draft for Dec. 2—the day of final college games.

Foss, in announcing the draft, said he was complying with an NCAA request not to hold the player selection until the close of the college season.

The Dallas News first broke the secret draft. Then the Union chimed in and next came the Houston Post to confirm it.

Last year the AFL held part of its draft a month earlier than the National Football League.

The Dallas News said it got first wind of the secret draft from a Southwest Conference coach, who said he figured there had been one because the pros kept calling.

Foss said he didn't believe it had been done but he did admit that the AFL owners had been contacting college players they would like to draft, "just like the National Football League has been doing. But that doesn't mean we've held a draft or tried to sign anybody."

Rens Record 101-85 Victory Over Frisco

By The Associated Press

It took 'em three games to get going, but now the Kansas City Steers seem to have established themselves as the club to beat in the American Basketball League's Western Division.

The Steers, after dropping two of their first three games, have won five in a row. They romped over the second place Jets at Los Angeles Sunday, 100-85.

Coached by Jack McMahon, former ace of the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association, the Steers are doing it with a balanced attack led by former Kansas tar Bill Bridges.

Bridges, top rebounder in the Big Eight conference last season, had 18 points Sunday. Six other Kansas City players also hit double figures. Hal Lear led Los Angeles with 24.

Pittsburgh, leading the Eastern Division with a 7-3 record, defeated San Francisco 101-85 in the other league game played Sunday night. Phil Rollins and George Patterson each hit 24 points and Connie Hawkins scored 14 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. John Berberich had 29 points and 13 rebounds for San Francisco, which lost its fifth in a row.

Alabama Now Most Sought After For Top Bowl Games

Texas Loses Prestige After Dropping 1st Contest To TCU

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

While Alabama, the king of college football, debates which bowl offer to accept, a full-scale rhubarb broke out today, triggered by speculation that the University of Colorado was about to be snubbed by the Orange Bowl.

Alabama, one of the two remaining major unbeaten powers since the stunning 6-0 defeat of Texas by Texas Christian Saturday, apparently has its choice of the Rose Bowl or Cotton Bowl.

'Bama Coach Bear Bryant confirmed his club had been approached to play in the Rose Bowl, indicating the tradition of plucking a Big Ten team for the Pasadena classic is being scrapped.

The Crimson Tide (9-0) can't accept anything until after its final game against Auburn Dec. 2, because of Southeastern Conference regulations. Alabama, No. 2 in the current Associated Press poll, crushed Georgia Tech 10-0 last Saturday.

Meanwhile, angry rumblings came from the University of Colorado after reports that the Orange Bowl favored Kansas. The Big Eight sends the visiting team to the Orange Bowl, but it does not have to select the champion.

Colorado (8-1) already has clinched at least a tie for the league title, but the Buffalos, according to some members of the Orange Bowl committee, have been unimpressive in their last two starts. Kansas, beaten only by Colorado in the league, has won six straight with an explosive offense.

"The contract and the conference should be investigated if we are bypassed," thundered Colorado Coach Sonny Grandelius. "I don't care what anyone says, we're the conference champions and we're entitled to play in the Orange Bowl."

Kansas, besides losing to Colorado in the Big Eight, dropped a non-league game to Texas Christian and was tied by Wyoming early in the season.

With the downfall of Texas there was no team capable of arguing with Alabama for the top spot in the nation. Rutgers (8-0), which already has spurned bowl invitations, is the only other undefeated-untied major team. The Scarlet smothered Colgate 26-6 Saturday.

So with the regular season closing next Saturday, the bowl promoters still are in a mad scramble.

Here is the current rundown:

ROSE—Waiting for an answer from Alabama. Assuming the Crimson Tide whips Auburn, Bryant probably will jump at the California trip. This sidetracks the two Big Ten hopefuls, Minnesota (7-1) and Ohio State (7-0-1) The UCLA-Southern California game Saturday will decide the host school.

ORANGE — The visiting team will be Colorado or Kansas. Louisiana State, 14-6 winner over Mississippi State, already has disassociated itself with the Sugar Bowl, so probably will wind up in the Orange.

COTTON—The sudden downfall of Texas, which had been riding pell-mell toward the national championship, left the Longhorns tied for the Southwest Conference lead with Arkansas. If Texas defeats Texas A&M Thanksgiving Day and Arkansas gets past Texas Tech next Saturday, the two teams will wind up tied for the league crown. Texas will get the Cotton Bowl spot on the basis of a victory over Arkansas.

Mississippi (8-1) is the most likely choice to provide the opposition. The Rebels claim they have made no committments.

SUGAR—With Alabama looking westward and Louisiana State not interested, the Sugar Bowl is in a tough spot. Georgia Tech, although beaten the last two weeks, appears to be the best of the lot for the host spot.

Arkansas, pushed out of the Cotton Bowl, probably will go to New Orleans to provide the opposition.

GATOR — Miami probably will be the home team assuming the Hurricanes beat Northwestern and Florida in their final two games. Maryland and Duke of the Atlantic Coast Conference both would like a bid.

Columbus Will Meet Grand Rapids In UFL

By The Associated Press

The Columbus Colts will play for the championship of the United Football League against the winner of a Western Division playoff game.

The playoff will be Grand Rapids at Indianapolis Sunday. Both have 6-3-1 marks.

The league title contest will be Dec. 2, in the home city of the Western Division titleholder.

100 Attend Annual Banquet

Reese Honored At Chester Grid Fete

Don Reese, a versatile senior who was Chester High's "one-man gang" the past season, captured two awards for standout play at the annual football banquet honoring the Panthers Saturday night.

A rugged 165-pounder, Reese was the unanimous choice for the third annual Student Council award and another presented by veteran Coach Dom Amedeo.

One hundred attended the banquet given by the Chester High Football and Basketball Mothers in the Masonic Temple.

As Principal R. M. McFarland pointed out during the program, there was "no indecision" in the selection of Reese as the Panthers' outstanding player in the 1961 campaign.

Termed a "hard - nosed kid" by the Panther coaches, Reese starred on defense with a good share of the squad's tackles, and also punted.

The season found him performing at center, guard, tackle and halfback. He once ran 80 yards for a touchdown in proving his capabilities as a utility man.

The Panthers compiled a 3-6-0 record this year and "played some real good football," Amedeo told the group.

The event also marked the birthday anniversary of Amedeo, whose eighth squad at Chester High showed as much determination and scrap as some of his other crack outfits.

Amedeo introduced the squadmen and named 22 as recipients of varsity letters, including 10 seniors.

Charles D. Taylor, president of the National Church Supply Co. of Chester, was principal speaker.

Richard Bryan, assistant coach, also spoke briefly. Among guests introduced were John W. Boyd of Chester and J. Fred Allison of Newell, members of the Hancock County Board of Education.

The 10 seniors named as letter winners by Amedeo are Reese, James Cosgrove, Al Lyons, Larry Jarvis, Bill Yoakum, George Bebout, Ralph Rossi, James LaScola, Del Wright and Steve Smith.

Juniors who will receive letters are Robert Myers, Kelsey Johnson, Robert Taylor, Pat Gill, and Charles Mullen, who was unable to attend.

Charles LaScola, Tim Dukes, Danny Cook, Mike Clutter, Rick Hindes and Tom Bowen, plus Jerry Hissam and David Wright, managers.

Sanders Wins Cajun Event

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—"That guy Arnold will have something to say about it," quipped Doug Sanders when asked if he believed he could overtake Arnold Palmer in the final three tourneys of the year and move into second place in earnings on the 1961 PGA circuit.

"Arnold is one hell of an athlete," Sanders said Sunday after winning $2,000 in first place money in the $15,000 Cajun Classic Golf Tourney.

"You know," he said "Palmer can play bad and still score. And when he plays good, he scores even better."

Sanders used his now-famous short swing and unorthodox stance plus his methodical putting to post a record 14-under par 270 for the 72-hole tourney. He was tied for the lead the first day and took sole possession following the second round.

The $2,000 check boosted his tournament earnings for 1961 to $53,665.23, about $1,900 short of Palmer's total.

Palmer, golf's man of the year in 1960 with record earnings over $60,000, plans to return to the circuit at Mobile this week for the $20,000 Sertoma Open. Both he and Sanders could conceivably overtake idle Gary Player in the money race before the year ends.

Weirton Wears Another W. Virginia Grid Crown

By The Associated Press

Playoffs in all three classes Saturday decided West Virginia's high school football championships for another year. The only change among the reigning powers was Williamson's advance from co-champion to undisputed titleholder in Class AA.

At Parkersburg, Weirton's Red Riders whipped St. Albans 26-7 for their second straight Class AAA playoff victory and their fifth state championship in 19 years.

Halfback Bob Oliver scored three touchdowns — one of them on a 90-yard kickoff runback — in leading Williamson to a 20-13 Class AA victory over Mount Hope at Bluefield. The two teams had shared the title for a year after a tie in their 1960 playoff.

Winfield took the small-school championship with a 19-13 triumph over Williamstown in the Class A playoff at Ravenswood. A 24-yard touchdown gallop through the middle by halfback Dick Harris in the fourth quarter broke a tie and won for Winfield.

Five championships for Weirton —the school's actual name is Weir High—tie it with Parkersburg for the most state gridiron titles. The Red Riders now have won three championships under Burdell (Jim) Carey since he became head coach in 1956.

Weirton backs Bill Tucker and Rick Abrams gained 172 yards between them, which lacked only two yards of being triple the combined rushing yardage of all the St. Albans backs.

Tucker scored twice on runs of 54 and two yards. Abrams broke loose for a 50 - yard touchdown sprint.

Alabama Now Most Sought After For Top Bowl Games

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

While Alabama, the king of college football, debates which bowl offer to accept, a full-scale rhubarb broke out today, triggered by speculation that the University of Colorado was about to be snubbed by the Orange Bowl.

Alabama, one of the two remaining major unbeaten powers since the stunning 6-0 defeat of Texas by Texas Christian Saturday, apparently has its choice of the Rose Bowl or Cotton Bowl.

'Bama Coach Bear Bryant confirmed his club had been approached to play in the Rose Bowl, indicating the tradition of plucking a Big Ten team for the Pasadena classic is being scrapped.

The Crimson Tide (9-0) can't accept anything until after its final game against Auburn Dec. 2, because of Southeastern Conference regulations. Alabama, No. 2 in the current Associated Press poll, crushed Georgia Tech 10-0 last Saturday.

Meanwhile, angry rumblings came from the University of Colorado after reports that the Orange Bowl favored Kansas. The Big Eight sends the visiting team to the Orange Bowl, but it does not have to select the champion.

Colorado (8-1) already has clinched at least a tie for the league title, but the Buffalos, according to some members of the Orange Bowl committee, have been unimpressive in their last two starts. Kansas, beaten only by Colorado in the league, has won six straight with an explosive offense.

"The contract and the conference should be investigated if we are bypassed," thundered Colorado Coach Sonny Grandelius. "I don't care what anyone says, we're the conference champions and we're entitled to play in the Orange Bowl."

Kansas, besides losing to Colorado in the Big Eight, dropped a non-league game to Texas Christian and was tied by Wyoming early in the season.

With the downfall of Texas there was no team capable of arguing with Alabama for the top spot in the nation. Rutgers (8-0), which already has spurned bowl invitations, is the only other undefeated-untied major team. The Scarlet smothered Colgate 26-6 Saturday.

So with the regular season closing next Saturday, the bowl promoters still are in a mad scramble.

Here is the current rundown:

ROSE—Waiting for an answer from Alabama. Assuming the Crimson Tide whips Auburn, Bryant probably will jump at the California trip. This sidetracks the two Big Ten hopefuls, Minnesota (7-1) and Ohio State (7-0-1) The UCLA-Southern California game Saturday will decide the host school.

ORANGE — The visiting team will be Colorado or Kansas. Louisiana State, 14-6 winner over Mississippi State, already has disassociated itself with the Sugar Bowl, so probably will wind up in the Orange.

COTTON—The sudden downfall of Texas, which had been riding pell-mell toward the national championship, left the Longhorns tied for the Southwest Conference lead with Arkansas. If Texas defeats Texas A&M Thanksgiving Day and Arkansas gets past Texas Tech next Saturday, the two teams will wind up tied for the league crown. Texas will get the Cotton Bowl spot on the basis of a victory over Arkansas.

Mississippi (8-1) is the most likely choice to provide the opposition. The Rebels claim they have made no committments.

SUGAR—With Alabama looking westward and Louisiana State not interested, the Sugar Bowl is in a tough spot. Georgia Tech, although beaten the last two weeks, appears to be the best of the lot for the host spot.

Arkansas, pushed out of the Cotton Bowl, probably will go to New Orleans to provide the opposition.

GATOR — Miami probably will be the home team assuming the Hurricanes beat Northwestern and Florida in their final two games. Maryland and Duke of the Atlantic Coast Conference both would like a bid.

Columbus Will Meet Grand Rapids In UFL

By The Associated Press

The Columbus Colts will play for the championship of the United Football League against the winner of a Western Division playoff game.

The playoff will be Grand Rapids at Indianapolis Sunday. Both have 6-3-1 marks.

The league title contest will be Dec. 2, in the home city of the Western Division titleholder.

Columbus (6-2-2) won the Eastern Division by defeating winless Akron Saturday night, 17-13.

100 Attend Annual Banquet

Reese Honored At Chester Grid Fete

Don Reese, a versatile senior who was Chester High's "one-man gang" the past season, captured two awards for standout play at the annual football banquet honoring the Panthers Saturday night.

A rugged 165-pounder, Reese was the unanimous choice for the third annual Student Council award and another presented by veteran Coach Dom Amedeo.

One hundred attended the banquet given by the Chester High Football and Basketball Mothers in the Masonic Temple.

As Principal R. M. McFarland pointed out during the program, there was "no indecision" in the selection of Reese as the Panthers' outstanding player in the 1961 campaign.

Termed a "hard - nosed kid" by the Panther coaches, Reese starred on defense with a good share of the squad's tackles, and also punted.

The season found him performing at center, guard, tackle and halfback. He once ran 80 yards for a touchdown in proving his capabilities as a utility man.

Principal McFarland named Reese the recipient of the Student Council's third annual award, with his name to be added to others on a gold plaque for the high school.

Reese received a football autographed by the squadmen in winning the "coach's award" for standout play.

The Panthers compiled a 3-6-0 record this year and "played some real good football," Amedeo told the group.

The event also marked the birthday anniversary of Amedeo, whose eighth squad at Chester High showed as much determination and scrap as some of his other crack outfits.

Amedeo introduced the squadmen and named 22 as recipients of varsity letters, including 10 seniors.

Charles D. Taylor, president of the National Church Supply Co. of Chester, was principal speaker.

A civic leader with a keen interest in the ideals of local youth, Taylor cited the importance of athletics in preparing students for adulthood during his address.

Richard Bryan, assistant coach, also spoke briefly. Among guests introduced were John W. Boyd of Chester and J. Fred Allison of Newell, members of the Hancock County Board of Education.

The 10 seniors named as letter winners by Amedeo are Reese, James Cosgrove, Al Lyons, Larry Jarvis, Bill Yoakum, George Bebout, Ralph Rossi, James LaScola, Del Wright and Steve Smith.

Juniors who will receive letters are Robert Myers, Kelsey Johnson, Robert Taylor, Pat Gill, and Charles Mullen, who was unable to attend.

Sanders Wins Cajun Event

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—"That guy Arnold will have something to say about it," quipped Doug Sanders when asked if he believed he could overtake Arnold Palmer in the final three tourneys of the year and move into second place in earnings on the 1961 PGA circuit.

"Arnold is one hell of an athlete," Sanders said Sunday after winning $2,000 in first place money in the $15,000 Cajun Classic Golf Tourney.

"You know," he said "Palmer can play bad and still score. And when he plays good, he scores even better."

Sanders used his now-famous short swing and unorthodox stance plus his methodical putting to post a record 14-under par 270 for the 72-hole tourney. He was tied for the lead the first day and took sole possession following the second round.

The $2,000 check boosted his tournament earnings for 1961 to $53,665.23, about $1,900 short of Palmer's total.

Palmer, golf's man of the year in 1960 with record earnings over $60,000, plans to return to the circuit at Mobile this week for the $20,000 Sertoma Open. Both he and Sanders could conceivably overtake idle Gary Player in the money race before the year ends.

Students Seek Definition

CLEVELAND (AP) — What is patriotism?

A ninth grade world history class at Moody Junior High in suburban Bedford put together its definition of the term, then the class asked a number of people—from former President Eisenhower to housewives and laborers—what they thought of the definition.

They wanted to know also whether people thought Americans a "more or less patriotic than when you were in high school?"

One member of the class got an answer from Eisenhower's office saying: "The general feels you have arrived at a very good definition of patriotism and feels that its intensity, while not always fully evident in times of peace, nevertheless has not diminished over the years."

"A feeling toward America represented by a love of country, pride in our national heritage and a willingness to defend our ideals."

A letter from Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, noted that "in too large a degree we have been inclined to consider patriotism as old-fashioned because it supposedly is not rooted in reason but emotionalism. To the extent that the view has been adopted, we have not served out country."

U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., wrote that young people today "seem to be more aware of the problems we are faced with throughout the world and in our country itself, and, judging by the many young political groups around the country, they are more concerned with doing something about these problems than were the young people of a generation ago."

From Gen. Mark W. Clark, president of The Citadel military college in South Carolina, came the observation that "we have facing us today an enemy of freedom that is much more sinister than any that has faced America in previous generations."

"That enemy," he continued, "is militant communism. And its character is such that, in order to preserve the American way of life, we just all be more patriotic than we have ever been before."

The class, under teacher Richard Dunbar, wroter letters to 27 well - known Americans. They polled 84 persons in the community.

In general, the responses indicated people in high places feel that this generation is as patriotic as the one before it, while those queried in the community feel there is not enough patriotism today.

Students Seek Definition

CLEVELAND (AP) — What is patriotism?

A ninth grade world history class at Moody Junior High in suburban Bedford put together its definition of the term, then the class asked a number of people—from former President Eisenhower to housewives and laborers—what they thought of the definition.

They wanted to know also whether people thought Americans a "more or less patriotic than when you were in high school?"

One member of the class got an answer from Eisenhower's office saying: "The general feels you have arrived at a very good definition of patriotism and feels that its intensity, while not always fully evident in times of peace, nevertheless has not diminished over the years."

The definition furnished by the class:

"A feeling toward America represented by a love of country, pride in our national heritage and a willingness to defend our ideals."

A letter from Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, noted that "in too large a degree we have been inclined to consider patriotism as old-fashioned because it supposedly is not rooted in reason but emotionalism. To the extent that the view has been adopted, we have not served out country."

U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., wrote that young people today "seem to be more aware of the problems we are faced with throughout the world and in our country itself, and, judging by the many young political groups around the country, they are more concerned with doing something about these problems than were the young people of a generation ago."

From Gen. Mark W. Clark, president of The Citadel military college in South Carolina, came the observation that "we have facing us today an enemy of freedom that is much more sinister than any that has faced America in previous generations."

"That enemy," he continued, "is militant communism. And its character is such that, in order to preserve the American way of life, we just all be more patriotic than we have ever been before."

The class, under teacher Richard Dunbar, wroter letters to 27 well - known Americans. They polled 84 persons in the community.

In general, the responses indicated people in high places feel that this generation is as patriotic as the one before it, while those queried in the community feel there is not enough patriotism today.

Houston Wins 5th Straight

Oilers' Blanda Throws For 7 TD's

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

For a pappy guy who was supposed to be washed up a month ago, George Blanda is mighty active in professional football.

The 33-year-old quarterback, veteran of a dozen years in pro ranks, showed 'em Sunday that there's no substitute for experience—he threw seven touchdown passes in guiding Houston to its fifth straight victory in the American Football League.

The Oilers, with Blanda either passing for or kicking all the points — he booted seven extra points—bashed New York 49-13 to stay on top of the Eastern Division by a half-game.

The way the Oilers are moving, they look like a pretty good bet to administer the first defeat of the season to San Diego, already champion of the Western Division.

San Diego sailed over Dallas 24-14 Sunday for its eleventh straight league victory. But beating Dallas is no particular accomplishment—the Texans have lost six straight.

The only other game of importance last week was Boston's 20-17 victory over Oakland. The Patriots stayed tightly in the race for the Eastern Division championship. They don't play Houston again this season but they do play San Diego, which makes things equal.

Buffalo beat Denver 23-10 in a so-what game. Neither team is going anywhere right now and Denver obviously will never get there even if it made a big effort.

Anything but a feeling of fellowship was prevalent in the Houston-New York game. There were more fights than Madison Square Garden could afford, with three players being put out for their fisticuffs. Both benches were emptied at one stage.

There were 193 yards in penalties assessed, mostly because of the fighting. This tied a league record but wasn't as important as Blanda's seven touchdown throws, which broke his own record of four set last year.

$1,714 Given To MD Drive

A total of $1,714.65 was collected Sunday afternoon in the annual house-to-house canvass for the Muscular Dystrophy Fund.

Mrs. A. J. Brown, general chairman, said there still is some money to be reported. In addition to the city proper, the drive was held in Glenmoor, Calcutta, LaCroft and the Substation area.

A total of $235 was collected in East End, the first time this section of the city has been covered thoroughly in the drive, Mrs. Brown said. The canvass was conducted by members of St. Ann's Guild, headed by Miss Bernadine Riccitelli, chairman.

Mrs. Brown said the workers did very well considering the bad weather. She said envelopes were left in the doors at homes where the residents were out.

She also said 100 letters asking for contributions have been mailed various organizations. This report still is awaited, she said.

The money collected yesterday was counted at City Hall. Mrs. Brown today offered her thanks to the 350 volunteers who participated.

Warning Issued On Applying For Social Security

Some 800 residents of Columbiana County and 1,300 in Mahoning County may lose hundreds of dollars in Social Security benefits if they do not file an application by Jan. 13, according to William McCauley of the Youngstown office.

The people who stand to lose these benefits are still working and past the age of 65. Many of these people may still be under the impression that earnings of over $1,200 per year would cause them to lose their benefits.

McCauley pointed out that changes to the Social Security Law last summer make it possible in some cases for a family to receive some benefits even though the worker has yearly earnings of as much as $4,497.

McCauley urged residents of Mahoning and Columbiana Counties, who are 65 years of age and over who are working and have not filed an application for Social Security benefits, to contact the local social security office. Those who are single earning less than $3,000 and married persons earning less than $3,600 should contact the office if their earnings are as much as $4,497.

For the convenience of those persons over 65 and working during the day, the Social Security office at Youngstown will be open from 6 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday evenings, Nov. 22, Nov. 29, Dec. 6, and Dec. 13.

Miller Airs Role At WVU

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Dr. Paul A. Miller says he looks upon his new job as president of West Virginia University as a position requiring him to be an educator first and administrator second.

Interviewed by newsmen here Saturday, Miller, presently provost at Michigan State University, said he hoped to find a vigorous, active faculty in his new post. He said he would allow faculty members the greatest freedom in expressing their views.

"I enjoy the vigor of debate," he explained. "The sign of a mediocre institution is peacefulness, a lack of discussion and debate."

Recalling that he worked to pay for part of his own education at WVU, Miller said: "We must find a way for the patched-pants boys to acquire a higher education."

Miller also informed newsmen that he would appear before the 1962 Legislature in support of WVU's budget request for 1962-63 and that he would revisit the campus here on two or three weekends before he takes up residence in Morgantown.

His appointment to the $30,000-a-year post is effective Jan. 1, but Miller said his plans call for him to arrive on the campus between Jan 15 and Feb. 1.

Traffic Mishaps Kill 5 A Day On Ohio Roads, Study Shows

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Did you know that an average of five persons a day were killed in Ohio traffic accidents last year?

Or that men were driving in 82 per cent of all Ohio traffic accidents that year, and in 89 per cent of the fatal ones, leaving just 18 and 11 per cent, respectively, for women drivers?

Or that there were almost twice as many accidents during the daytime as at night, but that traffic fatalities occurring at night slightly outnumbered those in the daytime?

Or that one of every five accidents involved a teen-age driver?

The 1960 statistics were released today in pamphlet form by the Ohio Department of Highway Safety.

They show teen - age drivers were involved in 20 per cent of the 149,809 reported traffic accidents in Ohio last year. (Many are not reported.)

But they also show that teenagers (19 and under) made up only 13.6 per cent of all drivers involved in accidents—and only 12 per cent of all drivers involved in fatal accidents.

By comparison, the 20 - 24 age bracket comprised 14.8 per cent of all drivers involved in accidents; the 25-34 bracket 23.5 per cent (the highest); and 35 - 44 bracket 20.6 per cent; the 45-54 bracket 14.3 per cent; and the 55-64 bracket 8.5 per cent.

Those percentages are approximately the same for drivers in fatal accidents.

They show people being injured at the rate of 220 a day in an average of 409 accidents a day.

They show property damage totaling $106 million for the year. Of that amount, $47 million was chargeable to the thousands of unreported accidents—the so-called fender-benders and those with less than $100 damage to any one person's property.

The entire economic loss for 1960 was estimated at $310 million. This includes wage loss, medical expenses, insurance costs and property damage.

This economic loss, if shared equally by Ohio's more than four million vehicle owners, would amount to $71 each.

But as the Highway Safety Department points out:

"We can estimate and evaluate monetary losses. But sorrow and suffering are the incalculable costs of traffic accidents."

Heart Attack Claims District U.S. Marshal

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Frank Quarles, 63, U.S. district marshal for East Tennessee and former sheriff of Jefferson County, Tenn. died of a heart attack at a Chillicothe motel.

He had come here Saturday to deliver three prisoners to the federal reformatory. He apparently was stricken that night, and his body was found in bed Sunday morning.

Son Adds More Woe To Hunter's Unhappy Return

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Thomas S. Webb of Lima didn't bag anything when he went hunting. That was consternation enough. But more was in store.

Webb laid his shotgun on an ironing board after returning home. He went outside to help his brother start a car.

Meanwhile, his son, Thomas Jr., picked up the bolt-action shotgun and shoved a shell in the chamber.

The father was outside only a few minutes when he heard the blast.

Tom Jr. had shot a hole in the side of the frame house.

"I guess I'll just have to take him hunting with me next year," sighed Webb as he surveyed the damage with his 5-year-old son.

Remove both the stem structure and the seeds when you are preparing fresh pear halves for baking. If the pears are to be baked whole, fill the core cavities with sugar or other sweetening.

Traffic Mishaps Kill 5 A Day On Ohio Roads, Study Shows

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Did you know that an average of five persons a day were killed in Ohio traffic accidents last year?

Or that men were driving in 82 per cent of all Ohio traffic accidents that year, and in 89 per cent of the fatal ones, leaving just 18 and 11 per cent, respectively, for women drivers?

Or that there were almost twice as many accidents during the daytime as at night, but that traffic fatalities occurring at night slightly outnumbered those in the daytime?

Or that one of every five accidents involved a teen-age driver?

The 1960 statistics were released today in pamphlet form by the Ohio Department of Highway Safety.

They show teen - age drivers were involved in 20 per cent of the 149,809 reported traffic accidents in Ohio last year. (Many are not reported.)

But they also show that teenagers (19 and under) made up only 13.6 per cent of all drivers involved in accidents—and only 12 per cent of all drivers involved in fatal accidents.

By comparison, the 20 - 24 age bracket comprised 14.8 per cent of all drivers involved in accidents; the 25-34 bracket 23.5 per cent (the highest); and 35 - 44 bracket 20.6 per cent; the 45-54 bracket 14.3 per cent; and the 55-64 bracket 8.5 per cent.

Those percentages are approximately the same for drivers in fatal accidents.

The statistics show 97,974 accidents occurred during the day; 50,922 at night. But daytime traffic deaths totaled only 902 compared with 967 at night.

They show people being injured at the rate of 220 a day in an average of 409 accidents a day.

They show property damage totaling $106 million for the year. Of that amount, $47 million was chargeable to the thousands of unreported accidents—the so-called fender-benders and those with less than $100 damage to any one person's property.

The entire economic loss for 1960 was estimated at $310 million. This includes wage loss, medical expenses, insurance costs and property damage.

This economic loss, if shared equally by Ohio's more than four million vehicle owners, would amount to $71 each.

But as the Highway Safety Department points out:

"We can estimate and evaluate monetary losses. But sorrow and suffering are the incalculable costs of traffic accidents."

Heart Attack Claims District U.S. Marshal

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Frank Quarles, 63, U.S. district marshal for East Tennessee and former sheriff of Jefferson County, Tenn. died of a heart attack at a Chillicothe motel.

He had come here Saturday to deliver three prisoners to the federal reformatory. He apparently was stricken that night, and his body was found in bed Sunday morning.

Son Adds More Woe To Hunter's Unhappy Return

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Thomas S. Webb of Lima didn't bag anything when he went hunting. That was consternation enough. But more was in store.

Webb laid his shotgun on an ironing board after returning home. He went outside to help his brother start a car.

Meanwhile, his son, Thomas Jr., picked up the bolt-action shotgun and shoved a shell in the chamber.

The father was outside only a few minutes when he heard the blast.

Tom Jr. had shot a hole in the side of the frame house.

"I guess I'll just have to take him hunting with me next year," sighed Webb as he surveyed the damage with his 5-year-old son.

Remove both the stem structure and the seeds when you are preparing fresh pear halves for baking. If the pears are to be baked whole, fill the core cavities with sugar or other sweetening.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Gifts Should Have Lasting Value

It's a good thing to begin early to choose a few Christmas gifts for your child — gifts which he can enjoy profitably for a long while. Good, also, to make at once a Christmas budget you will strive not to exceed. Otherwise you may worry over how much you spent, the more so if there are several children. It's fine also for each child over four or five in the family to have a definite amount of money he may spend on gifts, especially for the other members of the family. It's wonderful if he has been saving for months from his allowance or earnings for this fund.

Dr. Garry Meyers

ONE TIME I was present on a Christmas morning with a family of five children, when the majority of gifts found under the tree were from the children. It struck me as an ideal exercise in unselfishness. I also overheard many remarks about the experiences each child had had in shopping for gifts.

When choosing gifts for the child up to seven or eight, we may be overimpressed with glamour and novelty, especially by a toy which can mechanically perform as a kind of robot. Exciting at first, it soon may loose its lure and quality to perform and operate. Usually its cost is high, far out of proportion to its usefulness.

Let us ask ourselves how long the toy will last and give enjoyment to the child. Is it suited to his age? Can he use it without help?

Although the tot two, three or four may not be much for group fun with a toy, the older child needs some playthings he can enjoy with others, especially indoor non-running games.

IS THE TOY safe? Has it poisonous paint the young child may put into his mouth? Has it obvious dangers for the child of any age?

Cutting tools, especially those motor - driven, and chemical sets can be perilous to any child who has not learned safe skills in their use.

Let us emphasize toys and games for quiet fun indoors; and books and children's magazines. Some of the best children's magazines are not on the newsstands, but your school or public library can give you their addresses. A children's magazine has the merit of coming to the child monthly throughout the year.

In any good bookstore or book section of a department store, you may see a wide variety of best books; also at your local public library or school library. Spend some time looking over them, preferably with your child — even if he's only three or four — before you make selections.

THE LIBRARIAN WILL be glad to tell you about some of the books which have stood the test of time as well as current ones. Also, she may give you lists of good children's books prepared by experts. Furthermore, many newspapers, especially in the Sunday edition, carry good reviews of children's books.

My bulletins, "Why Read to Baby and Young Child" and "Letting Baby and Tot Learn," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

One-Room Schools

NASHVILLE (AP) — The traditional one-room school isn't completely removed from Tennessee. In 1960 there were 364 serving 7,280 students in the state. Tennessee education commissioner Joe Morgan says, however, this is only a fifth of the number which taught 21,980 students 10 years ago.

Excess Food Doesn't Mean Extra Strength

Overweight working mothers, today's column is for you. One homemaker writes:

"I have a weight problem. I am 29, 5 feet 3½" tall and weigh 171 pounds. I am a mother of two school-age children, 8 and 6. I work in a factory for 52 hours a week. When I get home and have supper I then do the work around the house. You can see I have little time to be bothered with dieting to reduce. My husband does not believe in pills. He says it is up to me. There must be many overweight women in my predicatment. Won't you try to help us?"

Ida Jean Kain

Gladly. You women with two jobs must eat to keep up your strength This business of reducing is a matter of eating to build slimness and curbing calories to draw on stored fat for part of your energy needs.

—:—

KEEP TWO things in mind: Excess food does not make extra energy. Reducing is not a choice between strict dieting, or being fat. You can lose a pound a week on three adequate, strength-giving meals a day.

But you do have to take the time to plan good meals, and sit down to eat.

We will take the mother in today's letter as our model. She is young, healthy and needs to lose 40 to 50 pounds. This she can do in one year. What should her program be?

Let's make it a family project. Breakfast is a most important meal, but for the working mother it is apt to be a hectic time. Could the 8-year-old set the table the night before to take some of the rush out of the morning meal preparation?

One working mother reported: "I found the only way I could lick my weight problem was to force myself to sit down and eat a substantial and balanced breakfast. . .then I could forget about food until lunch time.

"Breakfast included one or two eggs, a slice of toast, lightly spread, fruit juice or dietetic fruit and coffee. Some mornings I had cereal with milk and, if I felt hungry, I also had an egg. I stopped buying chocolate bars, pies, doughnuts and the like. . . ."

Lunch: A carried lunch can include a sandwich made with thinly sliced bread and a thick protein filling. . .cheese, lean meat or left over sliced chicken. Celery and carrot sticks, waxed-wrapped, add something chewey. For dessert, a piece of fruit.

On arriving home after work, our homemaker should sit down and enjoy a cup of hot tea and a purposeful pick-up. . .for 100 calories. Or, if possible, have this energy pick-up at 4 o'clock.

AT SUPPER, sit down to eat a good meal, but have moderate servings and one helping only. Ask your husband to clear off the table and put away the food, so you will not be tempted to snitch at leftovers.

Working mothers, if you will resolve to leave off pastries and sweets for a few months, you will be in control of your appetite. You can reduce without going hungry or lessening your energy.

Steady vigorous growth such as this can come from only one thing: ever-increasing public and advertiser recognition of the newspaper's pre-eminence as a medium of communication. That's why advertisers also are investing more money in newspapers than ever before—$3,702,800,000 in 1960.

How To Cope With Firestorms

By PROF. WILLARD F. LIBBY

As one item for my poor man's shelter, I am seriously considering a tank of oxygen.

For one danger from nuclear

Eleventh In A Series

bombing is firestorms, in which an entire city is set afire by the tremendous heat from the fireball.

Incendiary bombing sent great firestorms raging through Hamburg and Tokyo in World War II.

In Hiroshima, a firestorm broke out 20 minutes after the bombing and caused heavy loss of life. Many fires set by the bomb's heat and by coals from overturned stoves became a general conflagration.

—:—

RISING HOT air sucked in air from all sides to feed the fire, as in a forest fire, or the draft in your chimney. Winds of 30 to 40 miles per hour developed in Hiroshima's firestorm.

Firestorms could develop in cities, or in suburban areas too, where houses are fairly close together, if the climate or season were dry.

They are not a danger to farmhouses or areas where houses are widely separated.

In small family shelters in suburban or city areas, though a firestorm could be serious, not just from lack of oxygen drawn by the fire, but contamination of the shelter air by carbon monoxide.

The tank should not be used, as in a hospital, to release oxygen under a tent. And it could not be used to release oxygen generally into the shelter. Masks would be needed.

A BRICK or concrete building might well not burn down in a firestorm, but even so persons in its basement shelter could be suffocated.

So could those in open hole-in-the-ground shelters outside, even though they were protected from fallout or blast by concrete or dirt. Oxygen tanks could save them.

Oxygen supplies would be wise in underground community shelters, to be used while fire burned outside, and the shelter was completely sealed.

Sealed shelters require pumps to circulate air. So, more than incidentally, a hand pump system is advisable in case of power line or from the gasoline-driven electric generator within the shelter.

Subways with their miles of tunnels might well withstand firestorms without an oxygen problem. Large underground garages or other public shelters could require special protection, perhaps through fire-doors, in case of big fires.

Fire departments in cities and towns can advise about fire protection and risks in various types of shelters from oxygen depletion or carbon dioxide build-up.

All you need to avoid the burn is something between you and the fireball, unless it's terribly close.

At many miles from a bomb, the heat could be strong enough to ignite curtains, paper, trash, kindling fuels and combustibles.

Good housekeeping to keep the area around your house free of easily - burnable material can help reduce the fire hazard.

Teamsters Slate Trial For Angelo, Youngstown Aide

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The executive board of Teamsters Local 377 will conduct a trial Tuesday on charges of embezzlement against John J. Angelo, secretary-treasurer of the local.

Angelo won control of the local less than two years ago from a faction aligned with Ohio Teamster boss William Presser. However, two members of the Angelo ticket joined the Presser group, leaving only one man on the seven - member board supporting Angelo, who also is a board member.

Police stopped a fight that erupted at a meeting Sunday at which Angelo denied the charges which involve expenditures of union funds.

The fight started when business agent Don Brott, an Angelo supporter, tried to take the microphone from Jack O'Neill, recording secretary. O'Neill objected to a motion made by Angelo supporters to absolve him of the charges.

Angelo said he will not appear at the trial Tuesday.

Ohio Center To Work On Space Propulsion

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The urgency of the nation's lunar and manned space flight programs has made it necessary to transfer work on nuclear-electric propulsion from the Marshall Space Flight Center here to the Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio, the space agency says.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the transfer will be made within three months, and that the Lewis center is expected to hire its own personnel for the program. The work concerns development of electric power for ion propulsion rocket engines, called essential for space travel. In the ion propulsion system, a reactor would heat vapor from which electrical power would be provided.

How To Cope With Firestorms

By PROF. WILLARD F. LIBBY

As one item for my poor man's shelter, I am seriously considering a tank of oxygen.

For one danger from nuclear

Eleventh In A Series

bombing is firestorms, in which an entire city is set afire by the tremendous heat from the fireball.

Incendiary bombing sent great firestorms raging through Hamburg and Tokyo in World War II.

In Hiroshima, a firestorm broke out 20 minutes after the bombing and caused heavy loss of life. Many fires set by the bomb's heat and by coals from overturned stoves became a general conflagration.

—:—

RISING HOT air sucked in air from all sides to feed the fire, as in a forest fire, or the draft in your chimney. Winds of 30 to 40 miles per hour developed in Hiroshima's firestorm.

Firestorms could develop in cities, or in suburban areas too, where houses are fairly close together, if the climate or season were dry.

They are not a danger to farmhouses or areas where houses are widely separated.

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN memory of my darling son Robert (Bobby) Clutter, who passed away 3 years ago today, Nov. 20, 1958.
I would give the world, for I miss him so, To have him with me again; My boy, who has entered the silent ranks, Of the boys who will never be men; I think if the angels looked down to see, Their song would lose some of its joy, For all that was dearest in life to me, Is gone with my dear little boy.
Sadly missed by Mother, Ruth Ball, Brothers, and Sisters, and Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Mellott.

Q. How can a stamp collector remove choice stamps from envelopes neatly and with less danger of tearing?

A. By applying some lighter fluid to the inside of the envelope under the stamp. If the envelope happens to be of very heavy paper, roughen the surface with an eraser before swabbing on the lighter fluid.

Q. How can I clean a white felt hat?

A. Use a mixture of one quart of cornmeal, one cup of salt, and one cup of flour. Cover the hat with this, and allow to stand for about 24 hours, then brush off. This, incidentally, will clean only the soil — not spots.

Q. How can I make a neat hole in a leather belt?

A. Use a heated steel needle for this, holding the belt firmly on a wooden board. This will result in a neat, perfectly round hole.

Q. How can I remedy some scratches on my furniture?

A. An old, but still good, method is to dip a walnut meat into salt, then rub this on the scratches. The oil of the walnut will color the scratches so they will fade into oblivion.

Q. Is there any way I can renovate some old, hardened glue?

A. You can usually do this by placing a few drops of vinegar in the glue container.

Q. How can I clean white braid?

A. Wet an old toothbrush, rub it across a cake of mild soap, and scrub the braid with this. The lather can then be removed with a damp cloth.

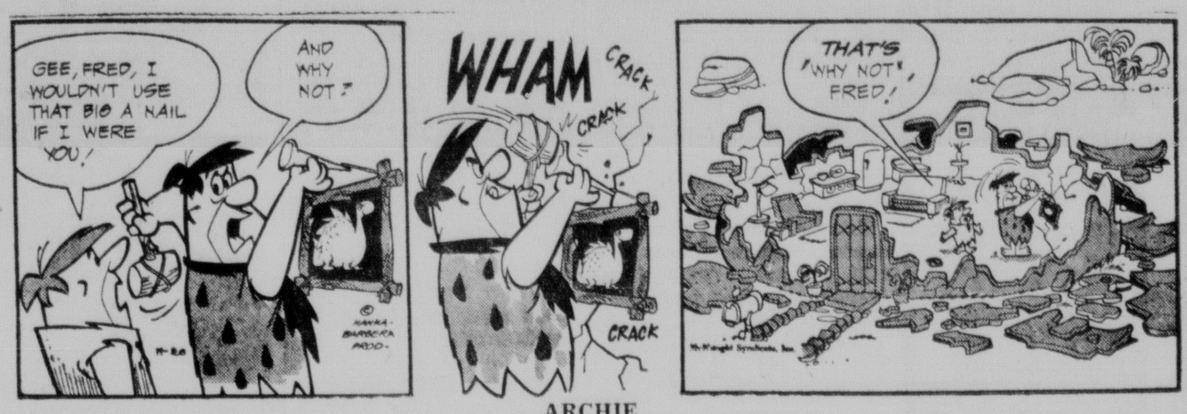

Q. How can I add luster to my linoleum without waxing it?

A. One old-fashioned, but effective, way is to add a little sour milk to the rinse water when you wash the floor.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Readers: You've done it again! I mean knocked me for a loop with your overwhelming response to a simple request. I was astonished (and delighted) by the number of readers who took the time and trouble to help a stranger.

Recently a reader who signed herself "Harriett" wrote to inquire about a flower. She thought it was called "the nicotine plant." Her mother loved this flower and planted it around their home. Harriett had been searching for it for many years, without success.

"Perhaps it is known by another name," she wrote. "Maybe one of your readers knows of it and can help me."

I replied to Harriett: "I don't know a hamhock from a hollyhock. But front and center, flower lovers — give Harriett a hand."

Within hours I received a 34-word telegram from Vallejo, Calif. "The plant Harriett is looking for is called Nicotiana," wired Mrs. R.G.

Then the avalanche of mail descended. There were more than 2,000 postmarks, ranging from Puerto Rico to Honolulu. A reader from Scarborough, Ont., cut one of the flowers from her garden, pressed it and sent it to me.

A Tampa reader who signed himself "Garden Nut" air-specialed two packages of seeds. "Flower Lover" from Stamford, Conn., offered to send Harriett, prepaid air freight, a box of the flowers she had been searching for.

I now have in my possession seed catalogues from Salem, Ore.; Clinton, Iowa; Monroe, La.; Rochester, N.Y.; Austin, Minn.; Philadelphia, and Mexico, Mo.

Fascinating Mail

The mail continues to be fascinating, enlightening and entertaining. See for yourselves:

From Princess Anne, Md.: "Harriett is looking for Nicotiana or Flowering Tobacco. These are sweet-scented annuals named for John Nicot who introduced tobacco to the French Court."

From Kansas City, Mo.: "Sounds like the old Four o'clock to me. They bloom at dusk and smell wonderful."

From Portland, Maine: "We call it Jasmine Tobacco out here."

Colorado Springs, Colo.: "She's undoubtedly looking for Angel's Trumpets."

Kalamazoo, Mich.: "It's Nicotiana, of course. This flower reseeds and, unlike many annuals, comes back true to its parent."

La Crosse, Wis.: "We call them Evening Stars in Wisconsin."

Marion, Ohio: "The name is Shoo Fly Plant."

Grand Forks, N.C.: "Tell the lady to write to any nursery and ask for 'Evening Scented Stock'."

Chicago: "I wish Harriett would come and get mine. They grow like weeds around my house and the sweet smell makes me sick at my stomach."

San Bernardino, Calif.: "We call it the Humming Bird Plant. The sweet aroma attracts flocks of 'em."

Louisville, Ky.: "I'm sure it's the Moonflower she wants."

Enid, Okla.: "The name is Nicotina White Bedder. In our part of the country they do best in boxes."

Billings, Mont.: "I knew if you wrote this column long enough you'd flip your wig. When you start thinking you're the garden editor you've had it, Kid."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed, envelope.

Patrol Open For Cadets

Applications are available for area young men interested in becoming Ohio Highway Patrol cadets in preparation for the Patrol Academy, Sgt. E. W. Mallery of the Lisbon Post said today.

There are immediate openings for the cadet program in which the young men serve at posts throughout the state, learning the patrol functions and duties and conditioning themselves for the academy.

Inquiries may be made at the post anytime, and Sgt. Mallery will be available for interviews Friday from 3 to 8 p.m. at the Route 30 office near Lisbon.

Basic requirements for a patrolman are 21 to 35 years of age, a U.S. citizen and resident of Ohio, 5-feet-8 with a minimum weight of 165, a high school graduate or equivalent and his physical condition and moral character must be excellent.

Cadets will be accepted at age 20½ years if they can meet the other basic requirements.

"Young men who apply for cadet positions now," Sgt. Mallery said, "probably will enter the Training Academy next spring or early summer. That means they should complete the training course and receive a regular commission by the time they're 21."

Sgt. Mallery said the need for cadets has increased because of the call-up of military reservists, retirements and other turnover in patrol ranks.

A cadet's starting pay is $300 a month. Upon entering the academy course, he will receive $330 a month and advances to $380 upon being commissioned as a patrolman. In five years, under the present salary schedule, he advances to $460 per month.

In addition, the patrol has a pension system, furnishes all equipment and has available group life and sickness insurance.

The Ten Commandments are listed in Exodus 20 and Deuteronomy 5.

The origin of the game of billiards is apparently unknown. Some trace the game back to ancient Greece and Egyptian days, while others insist it originated in France or England in medieval times. Shakespeare must have believed the Egyptian claims, because in "Antony and Cleopatra," he has Cleopatra saying, "Let's to billiards; come, Charmian."

Generating electricity with no moving parts
...another new way AEP keeps your electric costs low
Hot gases blasted at jet speeds through a magnetic field will generate electricity.
Working with the Avco-Everett Research Laboratory, 12 electric utility companies, spearheaded by AEP, are beginning to turn a development of the space age into a practical source for electric power. Called magnetohydrodynamics, this research holds rich promise of improving the efficiency of today's best power plants by 40%.
Doing things in new ways to improve service and efficiency is one big reason why the average unit price of electricity, for customers of Ohio Power Company, has not gone up during twenty years of inflation.
Your service is better, your rates are lower because Ohio Power Company is a part of the American Electric Power System. Supplying more electricity than any other investor-owned utility, AEP aids the economic growth of 2,350 communities in seven states. Through integrated operations, progressive engineering, research and coordinated management, the six member companies of AEP bring you low-cost power with greatest dependability.
